Vatican Council Enters 4th Year

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council enters its fourth year Monday, certain to complete by Christmas its goal of launching the Roman Catholic Church into a new orbit of modernization and renewal.

With the 2,200 council bishops working at unprecedented speed, all the remaining documents — with one possible exception — are expected to be finished by late December.

The range of issues covered and those still to come is vast. The issues hold profound meaning not only for Roman Catholics but for the rest of the world as well.

By the time the council ends the leaders of the Catholic Church will have come up with conclusions on worship, education, Church government, religious liberty, relations with Protestants, Jews and other non-Christians, and countless other issues.

For the first time in its history, the church will have been pushed by its leaders into a direct embrace with the rest of the religious and secular world.

It is nothing less than a revolution, accomplished in a remarkably short time. When Pope John XXIII opened the council on Oct. 11, 1962, no one knew how long it would last. But the talk was of at least five years, and a duration of even 10 or 20 years was not ruled out.

There was fumbling and uncertainty at first as cardinals, patriarchs, archbishops, bishops and heads of religious orders assembled for the first ecumenical council since 1869-70.

Gradually, the council fathers found their range and blasted long traditions of secrecy, hesitation and indirection.

The bishops set up panels to inform the world through the daily press of what the council was doing.

Council fathers outlined for themselves an unprecedented share of governing power with the Pope. And Pope Paul VI approved.

What would have caused shock just a few years ago — bishops to be accepted as normal — came in the council meeting hall in St. Peter's openly challenging Church laws on birth control, clashing with each other on controversial aspects of life in the Church and beyond.

In its first session the council finished no documents.

In the second it issued two — on liturgy and mass communications.

In the third session it produced three — on the nature of the Church, on the Eastern Church and on Christian unity.

Since this fourth and final session opened Sept. 12, the council fathers have virtually completed work on four — laity, divine revelation, bishops, and life in religious orders.

Still to be finished are documents on religious freedom, Jews and non-Christians, priestly formation, missionary activity, Catholic education and modern world problems. The latter document deals with such things as birth control and war and peace.

Rhodesia To Declare Freedom

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia said Saturday his country will soon declare independence even if it means going to war to get it.

"If anybody puts his foot in our country who has no right to, he must take what is coming his way," Smith told a news conference.

He said he did not believe, however, that the present deadlock between Britain and Rhodesia would degenerate into armed conflict between Anglo-Saxon brothers but he added: "If we have to get out of the country, we would rather go out fighting than crawling on our hands and knees."

The Commonwealth Relations Office in London promptly countered with a statement indicating Britain's resolution to back its views on Rhodesia's future with deeds.

"There should be no delusions in Rhodesia about the ability or determination of the British government to deal with the utmost firmness with any act of rebellion," the statement said.

Smith, without ever being precise, left his listeners with the feeling that a unilateral declaration of independence will be proclaimed shortly in Salisbury.

Smith's news conference followed a breakdown of his discussions with the British government Friday.

At issue is the future of Rhodesia's 3.8 million Africans who are ruled by the country's 250,000 whites. Britain wants independence to be followed by majority rule. Smith wants to perpetuate his white government.

In New York, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant expressed belief the Rhodesian situation is likely to come before the United Nations Security Council but he added the next move is up to the British government.

Former Senator Dies
CHICAGO (AP) — Former State Sen. Frank Ryan, a Democratic legislator for 42 years, died Saturday in Columbus Hospital. He was 79.

Ryan was senator from Chicago's second district from 1914 to 1956 when he retired. Ryan was chief proponent of legislation which laid the foundation for establishment of Cook County's medical center on Chicago's West Side.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday in Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Chicago.

The act symbolized the start of construction of the new hall, the fourth to go up on the men's campus since the founding of the College for Men a decade ago.

Newman, co-chairman of the 1965 C.A.C.H.E. campaign, and Leistner, an alumnus and president of the Men's Alumni Association, were among the 18 persons who took part in the special ceremonies. Viets Ambush Convoy 40 Miles From Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Hazards of war caught up with two big truck convoys—one American and the other in Communist service—in operations reported Saturday.

Viet Cong guerrillas ambushed a 20-truck transport company of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division about 40 miles north of Saigon Friday night. A military spokesman said the Americans suffered moderate casualties before fighting their way out of the trap.

As if in response, eight U.S. Air Force jets pounced before dawn on a North Vietnamese convoy of more than 30 trucks on a coastal highway 160 miles north of the border. The spokesman said they destroyed 11 trucks and damaged 21.

Thousands of American and Australian troops pressed an offensive in the Ben Cat area 30 miles north of Saigon, on the edge of the guerrilla-infested D Zone.

Contact was reported light, though helicopters ferrying supplies to the allies drew heavy ground fire.

Paratroopers of the 173rd Airborne Brigade carried nonlethal tear gas in that operation with authority to use it where circumstances dictated. A spokesman said they fired the gas into guerrilla tunnels twice Friday.

to flush out any occupants, but the tunnels apparently were empty.

Guam-based B52 Strategic Air Command jets, which had staged two saturation bombings in the Ben Cat area in advance of the offensive, turned their attention to suspected Viet Cong targets near Hue, 400 miles northeast of Saigon. The eight-engine bombers dumped explosives there in their 42nd raid of the war.

The Viet Cong staged a three-hour attack against a government outpost in Quang Duc Province, adjoining the Cambodian frontier 115 miles north of Saigon.

A spokesman said two guerrilla companies—perhaps 200 men—were involved and they overran part of the outpost, but were held off from the rest by a government platoon. The guerrillas withdrew.

About 2,800 South Korean marines, the vanguard of a 15,000-man combat division, landed from a U.S. troopship at Cam Ranh Bay, 180 miles northeast of Saigon.

These marines and 2,200 more troops scheduled to disembark Sunday will take over security duties from a battalion of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division at the bay, which is being developed as a massive supply port.

Johnson May Taste Defeat On Several Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson seems likely to taste some of the sour lemon of defeat on scattered issues as Congress bucks its way toward an end-of-the-month adjournment.

The President, recuperating from surgery at Bethesda Naval Hospital, apparently is in for a political setback Monday when the Senate is expected to reject a motion to limit debate on a House-passed bill to eliminate state authority to ban union shop contracts.

This action probably will mean the postponement until 1966 of final action on a measure Johnson promised labor leaders he would try to get Congress to pass in this session.

Coupled with this rebuff, the President may find on his desk before the end of the month a bill increasing the pay of government workers that he may regard as so unsatisfactory as to justify a veto.

Johnson asked for a $400-million yearly increase for Civil Service employees. The House boosted this to $1.5 billion over two years. The Senate may well vote to reduce this but still approve a figure considerably above Johnson's estimate.

The President has not escaped unscathed in a session which has rolled out a record-breaking volume of administration-sponsored legislation, including such landmark measures as health care for the elderly, excise tax cuts, elementary school aid, Negro voting rights and creation of a new urban affairs Cabinet department.

Before it adjourns, Congress seems certain to add to these measures for aid to higher education, highway beautification, vocational rehabilitation and a farm bill brought reasonably in line with the President's recommendations.

But Johnson's great persuasiveness and his influence with the legislators were not sufficient to win satisfactory action on home rule for the District of Columbia, where Negro citizens outnumber whites. He is certain to be back knocking on the door for this next year.

The President asked for expansion of minimum-wage coverage and didn't get it, another issue to be held over for the election-year Congress.

But even next year action is unlikely on a presidential proposal to increase benefits and set up federal standards for state unemployment compensation payments.

Johnson Signs New War On Poverty Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) —

President Johnson signed a bill extending and redoubling the efforts of his anti-poverty program Saturday night just before he went to sleep in his Bethesda Naval Hospital suite, it was announced.

A statement by the President was issued along with the announcement of the bill signing by assistant White House press secretary Joe Laitin. The President is recuperating from a gall bladder and kidney stone operation performed Friday.

The President expressed the aims of his War on Poverty and said in his statement that this bill, which authorizes $1.7 billion to finance the economic opportunities program for 1966, redoubles efforts to sustain what he called "a vital cause."

A statement pointed out that the new bill establishes no new programs and makes no major changes in existing programs, "but it is a vital piece of legislation because it sustains a vital cause."

The President had been before dawn — at a.m. — his press secretary said — and the bill he signed before bedtime was the 14th Saturday.

The President — his doctors saying he was showing unusual powers of recuperation — had worked at the nation's business in his green-upholstered rocking chair. It was reported that he signed the latest bill between 8:30 and 9:30 p.m., EDT, and went to sleep shortly thereafter.

One new development was revealed by Johnson's family doctor, Dr. James C. Cain, who said that the President has yet another kidney stone — one that has been there for years.

He said doctors do not plan to remove it.

And Cain indicated Johnson's doctors expect he will be a hard man to keep down.

He said Johnson is fatigued from Friday's operation and had a minor headache, but added "that is to be expected in a man just out of surgery."

"You know the President," he said, "and to predict when he's going to get out, I don't know. We're going to keep him by main force until we feel it's safe."

White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers said Johnson is receiving capsule intelligence reports on the world situation, and is in shape to do whatever needs to be done.

"I assume that every decision that the President needs to take and every action the President needs to make will be done," he said.

"I'm sure he will be carrying out his usual activities, which he has been doing for years."

he's doing, really, to some extent this morning," said Dr. Cain. Surgeons removed Johnson's faulty gall bladder, which contained one stone, and took another stone from a tube that leads away from the kidney in a two-hour and 15-minute operation Friday morning.

Awake before dawn Saturday, Johnson signed "3 bills, read mail and conferred with aides."

"The President is not a usual man," said Cain. "He has certainly shown, I think, unusual recuperative powers."

"I know of no way he could be doing any better than he is," Cain said. "We're very pleased."

After the White House showed newsmen colored slides of Johnson's blood-encrusted gall bladder and of the quarter-inch stone removed from his right ureter, Cain came up with his surprise.

"There is a stone in the left kidney," he reported. "It's been there for years."

But Cain said doctors do not expect it will be necessary to remove that stone. "It's been watched carefully for years," he said. "It has not changed."

White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers said Cain's report was the first he had heard of the additional stone. It sent him off for clarification.

Moyers returned to report that doctors have known of the stone since 1955, when Johnson had an operation for removal of another kidney stone.

He said it has remained the same size — about one centimeter in diameter — for the past five years. "It appears to be

There, legislative aide Jake Jacobsen brought him a bill to extend the interest equalization tax, designed to combat the outflow of U.S. gold. Johnson signed it into law.

Before the morning was out, the President had signed 12 other bills, some while sitting in the chair, others while in bed, with the head of his mattress raised into a near-sitting position.

One of the measures establishes policies on concession rights in national parks. Johnson coupled it with a prepared statement, ordering a Budget Bureau study of policies covering concessions on all government-owned land.

The other bills were minor measures, including one that authorizes more electric type-writers for congressmen.

Up Java-Based Anti-Red Push

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Radio Malaysia said Saturday the Indonesian Army's anti-Communist campaign is spreading from Java, showing up in both the Celebes to the east and Sumatra to the west.

Prime Minister Abdul Rahman of Malaysia, harassed economically and militarily for months by its big island neighbor, suggested that Indonesian President Sukarno will lose a golden opportunity if he fails to oust the Communists now.

"I think the tide is turning in our favor," Rahman said in a dinner speech at Ipoh, about 100 miles north of Kuala Lumpur.

"As if in answer to our prayers, the Indonesian people have now realized that the real enemy of Indonesia is not Western imperialists or Malaysia, but rather the Communist imperialists whose plan is to dominate Southeast Asia."

Broadcasts by the army-controlled radio station in Jakarta told of sidelights from the abortive leftist coup last weekend: — Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, the defense minister and armed forces chief, has taken direct charge for the time being of Indonesia's official news agency Antara. The army suspended the agency's operations a week ago on the ground it was infiltrated by Communists.

— Government forces uncovered a rebel cache of 234 rifles near the Halim air base on Jakarta's outskirts, where a common grave previously yielded the mutilated bodies of six army generals.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Thousands of Cubans are preparing to leave their homeland, beginning Sunday, but the U.S. State Department said any massive exodus probably would not start for 10 days.

A hodge-podge fleet of exile craft is scheduled to sail for Florida from a small fishing port on Cuba's north coast Sunday despite U.S. warnings that the trip is illegal.

The State Department said Saturday it had asked the Cuban government to stop any Dunkirk-type movement of small boats across the Florida Straits until negotiations establish an orderly program.

But the port of Camariaca, designated by Fidel Castro as the exit point, is being equipped to handle a sizable flow of refugees. Roads have been constructed, along with 15 dormitories, a cafeteria and a parking lot.

Exiles in Miami estimate that 50,000 persons are ready to leave Cuba. But sources in Havana said the figure could run much higher, depending on how long the open door policy remains in effect and the conditions for leaving.

Florida Gov. Haydon Burns estimated the eventual number could run from 300,000 to half a million.

Famed Astronomer Changes His Opinion Of Universe

LONDON (AP) — Prof. Fred Hoyle, Britain's foremost astronomer, dropped a scientific bombshell Saturday. He said he probably has been wrong for 20 years about the nature of the universe.

One of the most brilliant minds in modern astronomy, Hoyle has been the chief proponent of the steady-state theory of the universe. This theory holds that matter is being created continuously out of energy, and the universe has always been much the same as it is now.

By his theory, the creation of new matter caused the universe to expand and the galaxies—the island universes of stars—to move away from each other.

Against this theory, many astronomers argue that the universe started with an explosion—the so-called "big bang" theory. By their account, this is the reason for the movement of the galaxies away from each other. But many an astronomer sided with Hoyle.

In an article in the scientific journal "Nature," Hoyle did not go over to the "big bang" theory. He said he now believes the universe probably is in a state of flux, expanding for billions of years, then contracting to what amounts to a dense ball of matter, then expanding again.

Or it may be possible that only parts of the universe are pulsating, including our corner, while other parts remain unchanged, the Cambridge astronomer added.

His new ideas are based on recent observations, especially those of quasi-stellar radio sources. These faint and undefined but huge "quasars" are on the edge of the visible universe.

He says recent observations point to the theory that the universe was much denser in the past than it is now. If that is the case, the steady-state theory is out.

In Hoyle's own words: "From the data I have presented here it seems likely that the idea we now have to be discarded, at any rate in the form it has widely become known—the steady-state universe."

Hope Still Remains For Another Big One

By DEREK SCHOEN
ALLEGHANY, Calif. (AP) — Like the bearded, brawling 49ers themselves, this town's glory days as a gold-rich boom town are long since past.

But Alleghany lingers on — existing on a dribble of gold and fed by dreams of one more big strike.

Gold spawned Alleghany, and gold keeps it alive — 116 years after Hawaiian crewmen jumped ship in San Francisco Bay and began panning for nuggets in the twisting creek that splits the Sierra foothills below Alleghany.

Propped on the side of a 4,500-foot peak in Sierra County — 200 miles northeast of San Francisco and near the town that inspired Bret Harte's "Outcasts of Poker Flat" — Alleghany is the only California town where gold is the basic economy.

Twenty of the town's 120 residents draw $2-an-hour wages bringing out gold ore from mines 3,000 feet beneath the earth.

Other townspeople spend days panning on Kanaka Creek, named for the Hawaiians. Still others live on relief checks and surplus food distributed by the county.

There is no other industry. And prospects for the future look bleak.

Officials of the original 16 to 1 Mine, the town's biggest employer with 11 workers, say it costs them $50 to produce one ounce of gold. Under law, they must sell the gold to the federal government — at $35 an ounce.

The company recently sold its gold specimen collection for $24,000. With this money, and by selling timber rights, the original 16 to 1 Mine hopes to keep going until gold prices are hiked.

Townspeople see little chance of that. But their pessimism dissolves when they get to talking about "hitting a strike so big that the company could make money even at $35 an ounce."

The speaker is Maude Clemo, wife of a miner who came to Alleghany in 1937. Clemo still works in the original 16 to 1.

Maude sips beer in Casey's Place, one of the town's two bars, and remembers the 1930s when Alleghany's mines employed 400 workers.

"Back in those days, the big thing was gambling. They'd catch a rattlesnake and put him in a big box to fight a rat. All the people would bet and, believe it or not, the rats would win more often than not."

Down the town's single street, past the Golden Eagle Hotel — a battered wooden structure where bartender Bob Carlson says, "You can get a room if the owner feels like it" — Joe Shaffi holds glum court at his Alleghany Supply Co., the only store within 20 miles.

"The worst thing about it all," says Shaffi, "is the way we've lost our young. There's nothing for them to do here. So they just grow up and leave."

In the corrugated iron sheds above the original 16 to 1's main mine, Carl Harwell recalls how he left his Tennessee home during the Depression and ended up working as a gold miner.

"I came out to make me a few dollars, but I never could make enough. Now I've got three kids in school."

Harwell, 56, has seen the mine through some good as well as bad times. He thinks, "We're just about at the end of the line."

But even Shaffi, normally solemn, gets enthusiastic when he opens his safe to show visitors a 10½-ounce gold nugget. It belongs to John Fontana, 76, a retired miner, who says he found it along the road north of Alleghany.

Fontana's stroke of good fortune has boosted the morale of everyone in town.

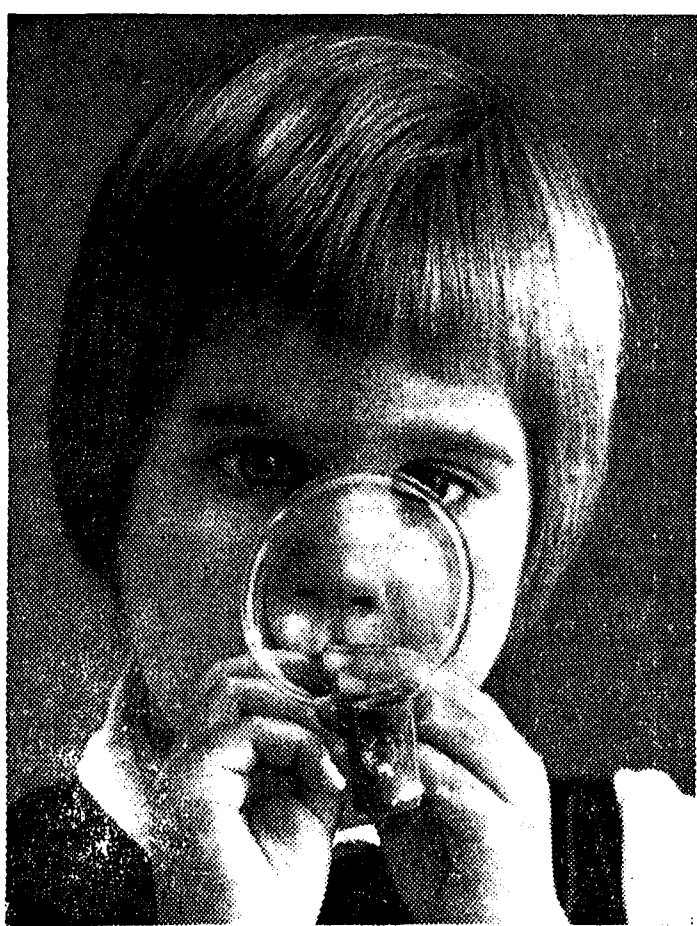

"A lot of people here still have the gold fever. A lot of fellows think the next day will be the big one," says Shaffi. "A big strike would keep the town going. That's what everyone wants."

FIVE RECEIVE MINOR INJURIES—Five persons escaped serious injury in a two-car accident three miles southeast of Jacksonville on the Old Lynnville road about 11 o'clock Friday night. A car driven by Edward Allee, 17, of 1614 Chilton, at left, parked at the side of the road, was struck from behind by a second car driven by Billy G. Weyl, right, 20, of 613 South Fayette. Passengers in the Weyl auto were: Shirley Edwards, 17, of 234½ West State; and Wayne Bock, 18, of 406 South Prairie. Linda Conner, 16, of 768 East College was in the Allee auto.

Investigating sheriff's deputies and state troopers said the Weyl auto left 44 feet of skid marks before the impact of the two autos. Allee said there were no lights on his auto at the time of the accident. All five occupants were taken to Passavant hospital for treatment of minor cuts and bruises. The Allee auto was overturned by the impact.

Reither On Beardstown

by Virgil Reither

BEARDSTOWN — A near record if not a record catch of fine fish for this mediocre fishing season was reported by Happy Woods this week.

He and Mrs. Woods boated 45 striped bass Tuesday while fishing in Curry Lake near here.

The news is not only in the number caught but in the species as well, since striped bass are not generally considered to be numerous in these waters.

Happy reported that the bass were "not big" but were as he described them, "the right eating size."

Terry Clark and Howard Potts have returned from Hayward, Wisconsin after a week's fishing trip, and they report no luck at all on Big Round Lake, mostly due to the fact that weather conditions were bad.

They pulled a boat and trailer on the trip and Clark, who is an employee at the First State Bank, said he would be ready again next week if the chance presented itself.

Orville Severns, the insurance man and once mayor of Oakford, is devoting more time to fishing and less to golf these days, having set up a rendezvous at Adkins Beach near Sadorius.

He used to play a lot of golf at the Beardstown Country Club but says he is a better fisherman than golfer. However, he now maintains his golf club membership at Petersburg.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite some adverse factors, the stock market posted a good advance last week, making record highs in some of the averages.

Worry over President Johnson's gall bladder operation caused only a momentary upset in the market early on Wednesday. Wall Street learned to "live with" the fact that the President faced surgery and held its own fairly well, advancing vigorously on Friday when the White House reported the operation "a complete success."

Events of great religious importance occurred earlier in the week. The first was the visit of Pope Paul VI to New York City. This distracted an unknown amount of attention from the stock market.

The other religious event was the high Jewish holy day of Yom Kippur which always tends to have a dampening effect on the stock market.

The start of World Series baseball had slight effect on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 3.4 to a record closing high of 346.7.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 8.67 to 938.32, failing to match its record closing high of 939.62 made May 14.

The Dow Jones rails average, however, made historic closing highs Thursday and Friday, ending the week at 228.87.

Volume was 32,988,074 shares compared with 42,355,430 the prior week, which was the heaviest since 1929.

Airlines, color television manufacturers, motors, office equipment and a variety of specialty-situated issues did well during the week.

U.S. Treasury bond prices rallied, recouping about one-fifth of the losses sustained in a 10-week decline. Corporate and municipal bond prices also were stronger.

On the New York Stock Exchange, bond volume for the week totaled a par value of $60.73 million, compared to $13.99 million the previous week.

Of 507 issues traded, 205 advanced in price, 170 declined and 132 were unchanged.

Driver of the car was Albert F. Buettner, 5 Hazelcrest Drive, who was headed south on Hardin. Witnesses said the boy ran in front of the auto, headed west across the street.

Village Marshal Orla Thomas investigated at the scene of the accident. Thomas said the Buettner auto left 92 feet of skid marks at the scene of the accident.

Mr. Funk reports that last year grazing on diverted acres was permitted provided producers returned a portion of the diverted acre payment. This condition prevailed because of the drought which occurred in August, September and October.

This year, however, ample moisture has provided adequate pasture and the need for early release of diverted acres does not exist, according to Mr. Funk.

The revenue bonds would be retired with funds obtained from admission fees.

The council approved a motion to request that the sale be postponed pending a study of the proposal.

Many, many thanks to the three young men, Jack Barnett, Roy Freese, Kenneth Cox, for their quick action in rushing me to the hospital on Sept. 15; also to the many nurses, nurse aides, and the private nurse, to my doctor for being so faithful to stay with me so long, the first night. Thanks to everyone for the many cards, flowers, gifts and visits; also to the five ministers for their visits and prayers.

JERSEYVILLE — Jersey county and Jerseyville police officers, who had a four-year-old girl in their possession Friday morning believing the child was lost, learned that she knew where she was going in spite of her tender years.

A Jerseyville resident, Mrs. Robert Dunham, brought Sherill Ann Salmons, aged four, to the Jerseyville police and Sheriff's offices about 9 a.m. Friday.

"I found her wandering about on the street near the Presbyterian church corner," Mrs. Dunham explained. "She was all alone and seemed confused regarding where she was going, so I brought her here."

Captain Edw. Henson of the local police force and Sheriff Paul Miller questioned the child. She told them her name was Sherill Ann. They misunderstood when she gave her last name and thought she said Sullivan instead of Salmons. Finally, Sheriff Miller asked her if she could show him where she lived if he took her for a ride. The child said she could. Sheriff Miller, Captain Henson, Sherill Ann and former Magistrate A. Thatcher got in the Sheriff's car and began what they anticipated would be a long hunt. They were mistaken. The small girl pointed out the streets and various turns to be made, and finally as they approached 101

SURPRISE AT IC SATURDAY?

Perhaps it wasn't as big an upset as when Illinois College knocked off nationally-recognized Washington U. two years ago, but you would have had a hard time proving it to the players and fans following IC's 19-13 surprise over Principia last year.

A good group of football players that have been at IC for four years found that Principia isn't invincible after all, and they have their own determination to thank for it.

That group, including such performers as Jim Cox, Charley Davis, Herb Smith, Bucky Sullivan and Butch Bending, have labored four years to whip their arch PCC rivals, but it wasn't until their senior seasons that they managed.

The Indians came into town highly favored, and why not? They were ranked high nationally among small colleges for rushing and total offense, and had most of the same team back that humiliated the Blueboys at Elmhurst last year by 46-7.

AS MOST PEOPLE expected, the Indians started off as if this would be a repeat, but the Blueboys got the one spark they needed early in the second quarter when Tom Rowland scampered 66 yards for a touchdown. From then on the flame grew and when it ended there was no doubt as the Blueboys grew tougher as they went along.

Heroes were many. Rowland, Roger Spencer, Jerry Sapp and Phil Snowden contained highly-touted Farley Helm's passing in the defensive backfield, Rowland and Snowden ran well, and Sullivan ran the offense to the letter, faking out many including your's truly on many fakes; Cox, Davis, Dennis Watson and John Minor all shined on defense.

Principia sat stunned for several minutes in the locker rooms after the game, and their coach, Jim Crafton, commented, "IC just wanted the game and went out and got it."

TOUCHING 'EM ALL: Our choices for the major leagues' most valuable players in 1965: Zoilo Versailles, in AL, Sandy Koufax in NL; Rookies of the year, Marcelino Lopez, Kansas City, in AL, Jim Lefebvre, LA, in NL; Congrats to Triopia assistant coach Dick Bartholomew, father of third, Thursday; JHS sophomore coach Bernie Gregory suffered a broken foot when a piano got away last week; Tom Farrell, who dominated golfing in Jacksonville a few years past, was in town a few days recently, awaiting re-assignment from the Army; Bill Jordan, a JHS basketball standout in the early '50's is back in the city, and will probably play with the YMCA team this winter.

Quincy Blanks Highlanders 4-0

By SANDY PETERSEN

A well balanced attack, headed by the adept scoring ability of center-forward Mike Villa, spoiled the Highlander's hopes for a successful Founder's Day, Saturday afternoon, as the Quincy Hawks blanked the MacArthur soccer squad 4-0.

Villa, a sophomore and native of St. Louis, collected two Hawk tallies in the non-conference tilt, while gaining an assist on a third.

Quincy broke the scoring ice midway through the first period after repeated attempts had been repelled by the Clan defense. Co-captain Jim Prov gained the unassisted marker, booting a corner-kick rebound past Clan goalie Bob Gay.

Villa was credited with an assist on the play, which gave the Hawks an early 1-0 margin.

Hawks Gain Second
Dominating play for the remainder of the quarter, Quincy added another tally early in the second frame, as Villa recorded his first marker of the day. The kick came from near the penalty stripe, caroming off the crossbar, into the Highlander net.

Quincy, defending NAIA district champions in the sport, added their final two tallies early in the third period on goals by right halfback Rich Schwarzew and Villa. Both scores came in the opening five minutes of play in the half, as the visiting Hawks continued to dominate play.

Trailing 4-0, the Highlanders managed several drives in the closing minutes of the period, and through most of the fourth frame, but to no avail, as the Hawk defense continually repelled the sparatic offensive threats.

Hawks Still Undefeated
The win was the Hawks' fourth of the season against no defeats and one tie. Since initiating a soccer program last year, Quincy now has an undefeated record of 12-0-2.

Statistically, Quincy outshot the Highlanders 23-16, while Mac goal tender Bob Gay managed nine saves, compared to eight stops by his Quincy counterpart, Bill Husted.

The Clansmen now post a 2-1-1 record, going into next Saturday's contest at Rockford College.

Crimson Sophs Romp To 54-0 Win

AUBURN — Jacksonville High's sophomore team ran roughshod over Auburn, here Saturday morning, scoring in every quarter in a 54-0 runaway over the host sophs.

The first time Jacksonville got the ball Otis Pitts scored on a two-yard plunge on the fourth play, with Jim Bruner running the point after. The march covered 60 yards. Later in the same period Jim Seymour blocked an Auburn punt and John Long returned it for a TD. Benny Richardson ran the point after.

The first time JHS got the ball in the 2nd quarter Bruner rambled 32 yards for six points. Armstrong blocked another Auburn punt a few plays later and Todd returned it for another TD. Pitts ran the PAT. Lakin later intercepted a pass with 25 seconds left in the half and Bruner ran 60 yards on the first play for a 33-0 halftime lead.

Richardson ran for a TD and John Mathews passed to Fortado in the third. Gerry McLean intercepted a pass and returned it 60 yards for a fourth period score, with Bud Dinkel running the point after. The final score came with three minutes left when Mathews carried over on a quarterback sneak. Strickler ran the point after.

Chris Howe was the defensive standout in the game which ran the local sophomores' record to 2-2. Auburn is 1-2.

Nebraska Tromps Hapless Badgers For 4th Win 37-0

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Fred Duda celebrated his promotion to first string quarterback Saturday by leading Nebraska's second-ranked Cornhuskers to a 37-0 football rout of Wisconsin.

The 5-10 senior, back in form after missing most of last year's play because of a broken leg, galloped 59 yards for one Nebraska touchdown, and threw a 29-yard pass to halfback Frank Solich for another.

The victory was the fourth straight for the defending Big Eight champs. Wisconsin owns a 1-2-1 record.

Nebraska seized on Wisconsin miscues and rattled the Badger defenders with long ground gainers in overpowering the Big Ten team.

Wisconsin's sophomore quarterback, Chuck Burt, third ranking passer nationally going into the game, unleashed a barrage of throws, but the Badgers were held to a net of 88 yards by air and 55 on the ground.

Duda's electrifying 59-yard run came midway in the second period and Nebraska padded its lead with Larry Wacholtz' 24-yard field goal shortly before halftime.

Hankinson Paces Gophers To 42-18 Romp Over IU

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Quarterback John Hankinson fired three touchdown passes and workhorse fullback Joe Holmberg scored twice on short runs to pace Minnesota to a 42-18 Big Ten football victory over Indiana Saturday afternoon.

The previously winless Gophers scored four of the first five times they had the ball in launching their Big Ten season. The Gopher defense picked off three Indiana passes and two of the interceptions by Tom Sakal led to scores.

Hankinson completed 12 of 21 passes for 156 yards. Holmberg rammed the Hoosier defense for 115 yards in 26 carries.

The Gophers steamed to a 28-6 halftime lead, handing the Hoosiers their second straight conference loss.

Sakal intercepted Indiana passes in the second and third quarters to set up two touchdowns. A 52-yard kickoff return by Minnesota's Curtis Wilson set up the opening touchdown.

The other three Gopher scores came after long marches. Indiana scored in the second period after intercepting a Hankinson aerial to cut the deficit to 14-6. But the issue was long-decided when the Hoosiers pushed across two fourth-quarter scores, the last against Gopher reserves with 45 seconds to go.

ST. PROCOPIUS 12, CULVER-STOCKTON 6
LISLE, Ill. (AP) — St. Procopius put across two touchdowns on forward passes in the third quarter Saturday to defeat Culver-Stockton, 12-6, in football.

Joe McPhie threw both passes, each good for 17 yards. One went to halfback Rick Cak, the other to end Chris Salfisberg.

The losers tallied in the fourth quarter, when one of 24 passes thrown was good for eight yards and a TD — Ken Williams to Ron Eiben.

INTERCEPTION RETURN: Roger Spencer, a defensive back from Winchester, is tackled returning his second intercepted pass of the day. Bringing Spencer down are Jim Evans (29) and Bruce Rankin (63). Spencer was one of several defensive standouts for the Blueboys Saturday.

Barrington Sparks Buckeyes In 28-14 Romp Over Illinois

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Tom Barrington, a slashing, driving terror, scored three touchdowns Saturday, leading Ohio State to a surprisingly easy 28-14 conquest of Illinois in a Big Ten football clash played in a steady drizzle.

A crowd of 83,712, the 10th largest in Ohio Stadium's history, saw the Buckeyes spot Illinois an early 7-0 advantage but storm back for three touchdowns in a second-quarter explosion that sent the Illini reeling to their second conference setback.

Ohio, winning its Big Ten opener, staged a strong offensive show, blending Don Unverferth's timely passing with the brilliant running of Barrington.

The 6-foot-1, 206-pound Barrington, a senior fullback from Lima, enjoyed the best day of his grid career, piling up an awesome 178 yards in 32 carries, completely bottled up the heralded Illini attack after their first touchdown.

Coach Pete Elliott's team did not score again until late in the contest, when a Buckeye fumble led to the visitor's last touchdown.

All-conference fullback Jim Grabowski, needing 125 yards to break the Illinois career rushing record set by the immortal Red Grange, was limited to only 44 yards in 15 tries, with most of the yardage coming when the decision was no longer in doubt.

Barrington, who scored his second touchdown in a two-yard plunge with only 41 seconds left in the first half, climaxed a 10-play, 38-yard thrust in the third period with another 2-yard buck for Ohio's final points.

IST FOLO — BARRINGTON
Fred Custardo, Illinois' outstanding quarterback, completed only three of 15 passes for 28 yards and had one intercepted. But Custardo, with the help of one 46-yard run, led the Illini ball carriers with 100 yards in 15 carries.

Ohio State, posting its second victory against one setback in over-all competition, picked up 252 yards rushing to Illinois' 207 and gained 92 in the air against the Illini's 81.

The usually sure-handed Buckeyes fumbled five times, losing the ball twice, the last boot resulting in an Illinois touchdown.

Ironically, Unverferth's four completions were his only on-target throws for the day as he missed his receivers on six other tries.

Coach Woody Hayes' team, which hasn't lost to Illinois since 1959, now leads the lengthy series 33-17. Four games ended in ties.

It was the third straight year Grabowski had been stymied in games against the Buckeyes. He gained only 11 yards in four tries as a rookie and picked up 32 yards in 12 carries last year when Ohio triumphed 26-0.

Another Mac freshman, Rodger Ferguson, finished fourth, while junior Jim McGinnis placed eight.

Record Crowd Sees Dodgers Win First

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Claude Osteen, bottom man of the Dodger big three, succeeded Saturday where Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale failed and pitched Los Angeles to its first World Series victory 4-0 after the two aces had lost the first two games to the Minnesota Twins.

The former American League left-hander who never lost to the Twins in his days with Washington, carried his charm through nine brilliant innings with a five hitter into Pascual and Merritt for 10 hits, five of them doubles.

Pascual Not Sharp
It was obvious at the start that Pascual, who missed seven weeks in August and September due to an operation in his right arm pit, was not sharp. The Dodgers were hitting long fly balls, and the Cuban's curve ball was not as effective as usual.

Jim Merritt, a Dodger clubhouse boy in 1961, gave up the final run in the sixth on a single by Wes Parker and a double by Maury Wills.

Drysedale Sunday
With a chance to square the Series Sunday, Dodger Manager Walter Alston had announced he would call on Drysedale, loser of the first game, to face Jim Grant, the man who beat him Wednesday 8-2.

The Twins lost more than the game when Earl Battey, their No. 1 catcher, ran into the railing near the Twins dugout while trying to catch a foul in the seventh. He was forced to leave the game.

Los Angeles also had a casualty. Jim Lefebvre suffered a bruised right heel while scoring from second on Roseboro's hit in the fourth. X-rays proved negative, but Dick Tracewski took over.

While Osteen was baffling the slugging Twins with four singles and one double, the supposedly weak-hitting Dodgers ripped

Nothing Funny About Osteen's Mound Ability
LOS ANGELES (AP) — His Los Angeles Dodger teammates call Claude Osteen "Gomer" after the television character. Gomer Pyle, but there was nothing comical about the Tennessee-born pitcher Saturday.

Certainly the Minnesota Twins saw nothing funny in the skinny, 5-foot-11 southpaw, who pitched like a giant in shutting out the American League champions 4-0 on five hits for the first Dodger victory in three games.

The hard-hitting Twins had been shut out only three times during the regular season, but that could be because they didn't have to face Osteen.

The 26-year-old native of Casey Springs, Tenn., posted a 5-0 record against them in his three years as a member of the Washington Senators.

"I wouldn't call it any special magic," protested Osteen when asked what sort of potion he used on the Twins.

"I just feel I know how to pitch to them. Except for Zoilo Versailles, all the hits they got off me were on bad pitches. When I got the ball where I was supposed to, they didn't hit me."

Osteen, the low man of the Dodgers' big three, has a reputation as a hard luck pitcher. Despite a 2.79 earned run average this past season, he had a so-so 15-15 record. What the won and lost record fails to show, however, is that his mates gave him only 29 runs in his 15 defeats.

"I don't mind saying that I wasn't exactly bubbling over with confidence before the game," he said. "It isn't that I pitch. I was wondering whether I'd have to pitch a shutout to win."

Browns Sneak By Steelers In Last Minute
CLEVELAND (AP) — Frank Ryan hit Gary Collins on a 14-yard touchdown pass with 44 seconds left to play as the Browns edged the Pittsburgh Steelers 24-19 in a National Football League game Saturday night.

Ryan moved the Browns 78 yards in the closing minutes to nullify a 15-yard run by Dick Osteen.

Hoak also raced 42 yards for a two-point margin with 3:54 left to play.

Hoak also raced 42 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter to keep the Steelers in the game.

Jim Brown caught a four-yard touchdown pass and plunged one yard for another score.

Brown carried 29 times for 168 yards on a field that was muddy by an occasional driving rain.

Blueboys Upset Principia 19-13; Routt, ISD Tie 7-7

Rowland, Sullivan Spark PCC Margin

By BUFORD GREEN

A fired-up Illinois College team used a brilliant defense when it counted, with outstanding running by Tom Rowland and quarterbacking by Bucky Sullivan, to stun highly-favored Principia in a 19-13 PCC upset at the IC field Saturday afternoon.

IC gave up 141 net rushing yards to Principia's nationally fifth-rated ground offense, but buckled down in the second half and let their offense do the rest.

Down 7-0 early in the opening quarter, the Blueboys were sparked by a 66-yard touchdown scamper by Rowland, a sophomore from Rushville, and stayed in command the rest of the way.

A 66-yard touchdown march early in the final 15 minutes was the scoring difference as the Blueboys counted their first victory in several years over the perennially-tough Indians. The win leaves the Blueboys with a 2-1 record, 1-1 in the PCC, and still leaves them with a chance to tie for the conference crown should Rose Poly lose to Principia. Prin is 2-1.

IC, which took a disappointing 20-7 loss against Rose Poly last week, got sweet revenge for a 46-7 thumping by Prin last year, against almost the same team.

Rowland gained 128 yards rushing in 14 carries, while Sullivan had the Principia defense on its heels all day with slick ball handling.

After the first two ball exchanges in the opening period failed to move either team, Principia took over on its own 36-yard line and marched 64 yards in 12 plays to break the scoring ice. Two costly penalties on the Blueboys aided the drive, along with a 17-yard pass from Farley Helms to John Lyon.

Principia Scores First
Another penalty on the hosts put the ball on the two from where Tuck Spaulding, 14th in the nation in rushing, drove across and Todd Small booted the PAT for a 7-0 lead with 7:50 yet to play in the opening period.

A fumble on the next play by IC gave the ball back to Principia and gave the Indians another scoring shot at the IC 34. Roger Spencer, freshman from Winchester, picked off the first of his two interceptions of the day three plays later, after the ball slid out of Lyons' hands.

Still unable to take advantage of a break as the Indians picked off a Blueboy pass on the next play, IC found themselves in trouble again. An indication of the Principia domination in the first quarter is noted by the fact that the Indians had the ball for 24 plays to only nine by IC.

Early in the second quarter Illinois College got the spark that was to ignite them to the upset. After Prin punted to the IC 34 from where Rowland took a quick pitch from Sullivan, broke around right end and scooted untouched 66 yards for a TD with 11:09 to play in the half. Garth Cripe booted the tying PAT.

Blueboys Take Lead
The now fired-up Blueboys countered right back to take the lead when Dennis Watson recovered a Principia fumble two plays later on the Indian 37.

From there Dan McGary chewed up six and Sullivan passed to Butch Bending who made a falling one-handed catch for 11 yards at the 11. Rowland and Phil Snowden carried to the five from where Snowden took a quick pitch and skirted right end for the score. The boot for the PAT sailed wide to the left.

Spaulding returned the ensuing kickoff 44 yards to the IC 48, and the Indians marched back to tie the count at half-time. Helm passed 24 yards to Jim Evans on the 23 and Spaulding and fullback Ron White

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Skip Knapp passed for two touchdowns as Elmhurst defeated Rose Poly 25-14 Saturday in a collision of previously undefeated college football teams.

Gib Bosworth scored the Engineers' first touchdown, passed to Mike Melford for the second and kicked both extra points. Elmhurst had too much ground power for Rose Poly, gaining 341 yards by rushing against the Engineers' 119.

LINCOLN U. 9, SIU 6

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Lincoln University's Robert Dozier kicked a 35-yard field goal with 33 seconds to play to give the Tigers a 9-6 college football victory over Southern Illinois University Saturday night.

Dozier's kick topped off an explosive fourth quarter which saw every point in the game scored.

Lincoln tallied first when Tilford Hawkins plunged three yards for the Jefferson City, Mo., team's touchdown early in the final period. SIU came back when Doug Mougey went one-yard to score.

Then, Dozier's kick ended the Salukis' hope and left them with a 1-3 season record. Lincoln is 3-1 overall.

NORMAL, Ill. (AP) — Eastern Illinois edged Illinois State 8-7 Saturday with a two-point conversion in a Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference game.

Down 7-0, Eastern recovered a fumble midway in the third quarter on the Illinois State 9. One play later, Eastern scored on an 8-yard pass from Roger Haberer to end Ray Schalljo.

A pass from Haberer to halfback Lynn Strack provided the winning margin.

Illinois State scored late in the second quarter with an 8-yard touchdown pass from Jerry Kinnikin to end Jerry Maley.

Kinnikin booted the extra point. St. Norbert 46, Western Ill. 13

DE PERE, Wis. (AP) — St. Norbert pushed to a 20-13 halftime lead and then burst loose in the final half with 26 points for a 46-13 football victory over Western Illinois Saturday. The victory was the fifth straight this year.

Quarterback Gary Camps provided the offensive spark for the Green Knights, the number one small college football team in Wisconsin last season. Camps completed 8 of 16 passes for 163 yards and two touchdowns and set up two others. Seven men scored for the Green Knights.

Western Illinois scored first in the opening period, but the Knights came back with three straight markers and finished the half with a 20-13 lead.

St. Norbert rolled up 467 total yards to 254 for the visitors.

Palmer Smashes British Hopes In Ryder Cup

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Arnold Palmer smashed a No. 3 wood 250 yards on the last hole of the Royal Birkdale links Saturday and converted it into an eagle that destroyed Great Britain in the 1965 Ryder Cup championship.

Latrobe, Pa., veteran sank Peter Butler of England with that shot and it was the match that put the 38-year-old trophy again out of reach of the best British golf professionals.

The groans of the crowd of 15,000 included one slight look of dismay from Prime Minister Harold Wilson himself, who took a day off to watch the final of the three-day competition, the best in pro match play.

The Americans, who now have won the Ryder Cup 13 times in 16 tries, went into the last 16 singles matches with a narrow 9-7 lead compiled in Thursday and Friday's four-some play.

They won five matches out of eight singles Saturday morning, lost two and halved one. Then in bright afternoon sun, they clobbered the 7,037-yard, par-73 Birkdale links to win another five matches while the British won but three.

The final score was U.S. 19-12; Great Britain, 12-9.

During the day's torrid play, Palmer, Tony Leima of San Leandro, Calif.; Julius Boros of Southern Pines, N.C.; and Dave Marr of New Rochelle, N.Y., each won two matches. Gene Littler of San Diego, Calif., and Tommy Jacobs of Denver, won and lost.

Don January of Dallas, halved his morning match with George Will and Ken Venturi of San Diego, Calif., replaced him in the afternoon.

Irish Down Army 17-0 Through Air

NEW YORK (AP) — A quick aerial strike and an intercepted pass keyed Notre Dame to a 17-0 victory over Army Saturday night as the two teams resumed their legendary football rivalry before a sellout crowd of 61,000 at Shea Stadium.

Sophomore quarterback Tom Schoen fired the nationally ranked Irish to the game's first touchdown early in the second half after ace safety Nick Raskas had returned a punt 19 yards to Army's 47.

A screen pass to Larry Conjar gained 18. Then Schoen, scrambling away from Cadet rushers, hit Don Gmitter, all alone on the goal line.

In the third period, defensive end Tom Rhoads blocked a Curt Cook pass and snatched it out of the air, giving Notre Dame possession on the Cadets' 29.

It was the first Notre Dame Army clash since 1958 and the first in New York since 1946—the historic 0-0 game, in the Davis-Blanchard-Lujack era.

Spartans Take 24-7 Win Over Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Big Ten champion Wolverines 24-7 Saturday.

It was the fourth straight victory for the Spartans, who held Michigan's vaunted running game to a minus 39 yards.

Dick Kenney's 20-yard field goal late in the second quarter put Michigan State ahead for keeps, before a crowd of 103,219.

Rival quarterbacks Steve Judy of Michigan State and Wally Gahler of Michigan exchanged one-yard scoring plunges in the first half.

Clint Jones moved MSU further ahead with a 10-yard driving run in the third quarter and Kenney added a 35-yard field goal with a little more than two minutes remaining.

Bob Apisa raced 39 yards for Michigan State's final touchdown with only three seconds left.

George Webster intercepted a Michigan pass to set up MSU's first touchdown and his fumble recovery set the stage for Kenney's first field goal.

Wildcats Trip Oregon State, 15-7, In Fourth

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Halfback Woody Campbell rambled 76 yards early in the fourth quarter to set up the winning touchdown and Dean Dickie's 35-yard field goal with two minutes to play clinched a 15-7 victory for Northwestern over Oregon State Saturday in an inter-sectional football game.

Until Campbell's romp to the 4 which set up Ron Rector's 3-yard scoring dash, it appeared the hard-running Beavers, led by fullback Pete Pfifer's bruising ground attack, would score a 7-6 triumph.

Shortly after Rector put the Wildcats ahead 12-7, Oregon State recovered a fumbled punt on the Northwestern 21. On a fourth-and-two play, Fred Schwegler was stopped one inch short of a first down near the Northwestern 11.

Late in the period, Tom Garretson intercepted a desperation Paul Brothers' pass to set up Dickie's field goal.

Campbell's electrifying run brought life to what had been a dull game. Northwestern's other score came in the opening minutes of the second quarter when Dennis Coyne blocked an Oregon State punt and Bob Tubbs recovered on the 1-yard line.

Bob McKelvey plunged for the score and a short-lived 6-0 lead. On the ensuing kickoff, Bob Grim romped 89 yards for a touchdown and Mike Haggard's conversion made it 7-6.

The Beavers, who held the ball for the first 8½ minutes of the game with their pulverizing ground attack, resorted to the same tactics in the second half.

Pfifer, who seldom gained less than three yards and finished the contest with 100 yards in 22 trips, highlighted a second half drive from the Beaver 34 to the Wildcats at before Brothers punted to the Northwestern 3.

An exchange of punts found the Wildcats still deep in their territory on the 7. Campbell then picked up nine yards on two carries and quarterback Dave Milam made a first down to the 20.

Campbell then broke the game open with his run to lead the Wildcats to their second victory in four games.

Top-Rated Texas Blanks Sooners In 19-0 Victory

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Marvin Kristynik's passing and running, the passing of sophomore Regg Lott and an opportunistic defense carried Texas, the nation's No. 1 team, to a 19-0 victory over Oklahoma Saturday.

It was the eighth in a row for the Longhorns in the 66-year-old series, tying the all-time record held by Texas. It also was Texas' fourth consecutive triumph this season.

Oklahoma got past midfield only twice under its own power and made only five first downs, one on a penalty. Except for a recovered Texas fumble, Oklahoma got no farther than its 27-yard line in the first half.

David Conway of Texas tried four field goals and cashed in on two. Kristynik passed for 41 yards and ran for 7 in a 80-yard touchdown drive in the second period. Kristynik scored the touchdown himself with a one-yard plunge.

The first time Oklahoma got in Texas territory, as the result of a recovered fumble, Tommy Nobis, the great Texas linebacker, intercepted a pass.

The next time Oklahoma got past midfield the Sooners lost

Defensive Battle Ends In PMSC Tie

Routt's defense held off a late ISD threat in the fourth quarter to earn a 7-7 tie with the Tigers in a fumble-riddled, defensive-minded PMSC conference tilt at the JHS athletic field Saturday night.

A total of seven fumbles were given away in the contest, and the fortunes almost completely switched from the first half to the second half.

Routt was in command the entire first two periods, holding ISD to only 20 yards on offense and one first down, while gaining a total of 78 themselves and took a 7-0 lead in at halftime.

ISD turned the tables in the second half, grinding out 157 yards, mostly by Ray Richardson, and stayed in command most of the final two periods.

The second Routt bobble of the second half gave the Tigers the ball on the Rocket 48 with 3:30 to go in the game and the Tigers marched down to the nine before the Rocket defense stopped the threat.

Routt quarterback Mike Fitzpatrick suffered an ankle injury in the fourth quarter, and was taken to Holy Cross hospital where x-rays showed no break. The tie leaves Routt with a 1-1-2 overall mark, 0-0-2 in the PMSC, and moves ISD's mark to 1-2-1 for the year, 1-0-1 in the conference.

Routt controlled the ball in the first quarter, running 16 plays to ISD's six, but managed only two first downs and failed to move. A recovered fumble by John Levins at the ISD 40 gave Routt the only scoring chance of the period.

From the 40 Routt moved to the 19 at the end of the frame, with Mike Sheehan, a converted end, and Dave Geers doing most of the legwork.

Complete Scoring March
Routt soon completed the 40-yard march on the ninth play of the series when Fitzpatrick skirted right end for a TD with 10:54 to play in the half. Tom Murgatroyd booted the PAT for a 7-0 advantage.

After the two teams traded fumbles near midfield ISD managed its initial first down of the half when Richardson clipped off two yards, but again the Tigers stopped.

Richardson picked off a Routt aerial late in the half and ran it back to the ISD 30, but Ken McGinnis recovered another ISD fumble on the next play to end the first-half threats.

For the half ISD fumbled seven times, losing three of them. ISD took over shortly after the second half began, stopping a Routt drive that carried from their own 33 to the ISD 40, when Gary Shaw picked up a Routt bobble.

ISD got their first big march underway from there, marching steadily behind Richardson, who gained 90 yards in 15 tries for the game, down to the five on an 11-yard carry by Richardson.

Fullback Ron Dodd made it to the goal line from the five, but fumbled and Routt took over again.

ISD began their only scoring march of the night two series later, with a 15-yard penalty on Routt starting it off. From the 33 they drove the rest of the way, with Danny Curtis tearing off 12, and Bloomgreen romping the final seven yards off guard with :23 to play in the quarter. Curtis legged the point after to tie the game at 7-7.

After Fitzpatrick rolled out for 27 yards and a first down at the ISD 33, Dodd picked off a Murgatroyd pass on the next play and ISD got another scoring shot.

A drive carried all the way to the Routt 28 before the Rockets held on a fourth and five situation with 4:59 to play.

Fitzpatrick reeled off a 13-yard gain and a first down to the ISD 37 on the play he was injured, but Walter Eymann picked up Routt's second fumble of the half, giving ISD the ball with 3:30 to play.

Richardson rushed 18 and 11 yards on two straight plays, and the Tigers moved to the Routt nine before a fourth and one play was stopped by the middle of the Routt line with one minute left.

Batley's Missed Sign Throttles Twins' Chance

The Twins' dressing room was sober, but there was no dejection. Most wanted to know how Batley was.

The big catcher lay in the training room with an ice pack on his neck, which he struck going for Willie Davis' foul pop in the seventh inning. Batley smoked a cigarette but did not talk to newsmen.

"Tomorrow is another day," star shortstop Zolto Versalles said.

Both Versalles and Pascual said the Twins had Maury Wills out in the third inning when he stole second for his first theft of the series. Batley's throw was on target, but it skipped off the end of Versalles' glove.

"I just rush myself too much," Versalles said. "He was an easy out."

Pascual said he felt good but couldn't control his curve ball and that's what beat him.

Car-Train Accident On N. Church Street Fatal For Woman, 69

A 69-year-old Jacksonville woman was pronounced dead-on-arrival at Passavant hospital about 9:15 p.m. Saturday after the car she was driving struck a west-bound Norfolk & Western freight train at the North Church street crossing.

The victim was identified by Morgan County Coroner John B. Martin as Mrs. Mabel Keran Hall, 69, of 927 Allen avenue, who was an employe of the Meline Nursing Home.

Martin said the women was apparently en route home when her northbound car was struck by the front of the engine.

The coroner said the victim died of head injuries.

Conductor of the train George Henderson of Decatur estimated the speed of the train at 30 miles per hour.

Police said the accident occurred at 9:03 p.m.

Mrs. Hall was employed at the nursing home, located at the intersection of West Lafayette and North Church street.

Death 2nd There

Her death was the second at that crossing within the past two years. Mrs. Rose Marie Zulauf, 35, sustained fatal injury when the car in which she was riding was struck by a train at that crossing April 30, 1964, about nine o'clock at night.

Tom Herring of 640 South Prairie, an eye-witness to the crash, said he was standing near the tracks when he first noticed the Hall auto.

"It moved pretty slowly, but she never stopped for the train at all," he told a reporter at the scene.

"After the car hit the train it knocked it over there," he said pointing to the west side of the North Church street crossing.

Came Up Slow

Engineer Loren Hampshire of Decatur said he saw the car approach the tracks at a slow rate of speed.

"We thought the car would stop, but when it reached the crossing it shot up on the tracks and practically stopped," Hampshire related.

With Hampshire in the cab of the diesel at the time of the accident was James Hickman of Decatur, fireman.

The body was taken to the Gillham - Buchanan Funeral Home. Further arrangements are incomplete.

The election of the queen was a feature of Founders' Weekend at MacMurray, marking the 120th year for the Women's College and the tenth year for the College for Men.

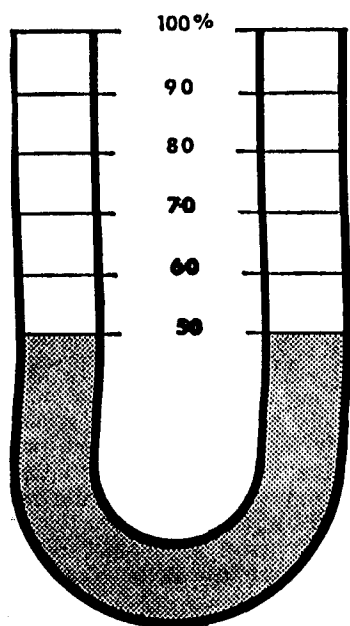

The queen and her court are shown here on the stage built on the soccer field where they reigned during the second half of the game. Ashland Pool May Become Reality In 1966

ASHLAND — Christmas 365 directors, sponsors of a project designed to raise funds for construction of a swimming pool at Ashland, have announced that the pool may become a reality next year.

The directors report that more than $19,000 has been contributed to the swimming pool fund. Plans and specifications have been financed from the fund, leaving a total of $18,403.03 according to the directors' report.

A general information sheet, widely-circulated during last spring's fund drive, stated that money donated toward the project would be refunded if the pool was not constructed during the summer. Although a permit for the pool was obtained from the Illinois Department of Public Health on June 16, further activity was postponed. The permit will become void on June 16, 1966, one year after the date of issuance, unless construction is underway at that time.

Christmas 365 project leaders have announced that funds for the pool will remain on deposit in the Ashland State Bank as long as there is a possibility that the pool will be built. Refunds will be made to donors who request that their contribution be returned.

The fund directors are Elmer Beadles, president; Leo Fitzgerald and George Boehner, vice-presidents; Dorothy Boehner, secretary and Marjorie Beadles, treasurer.

FRIDAY NIGHT

Investigating city police cited a Jacksonville man for two violations following an accident late Friday night near the corner of South Church and Anna.

Ticketed for leaving the scene of a property damage accident and driving too fast for conditions was 28-year-old Charles Thomas Pearson, 213 South Fayette.

Police reported Pearson was the driver of a car headed south on Church when he attempted to pass on the right side of a car operated by Michael Allen Miller, 406 Woodland.

Miller was also southbound, preparing to make a left turn. Pearson's car struck a telephone pole on the west side of the street, crashed into the Miller auto and sent it into a telephone pole on the east side of the street.

Pearson then reportedly fled from the scene but was apprehended within the hour and was issued the tickets.

Neither driver was injured but Miller's car had to be towed from the scene.

Employee-Patient Ratio On Increase At State Hospital

Recent advances in the mental health field in Illinois have not only been confined to drugs.

Within the past year, approximately 100 employees have been hired at the Jacksonville State Hospital to free patients for "occupational and recreational therapy."

Mental health specialists deem the trend more beneficial to the patients.

At present, there are approximately 2,400 patients at the local hospital and 1150 employees, or two patients to every employee.

Personnel Director Edward Fernandes of Jacksonville admitted, "We could use even more qualified staff members if the budget allowed for the expansion."

During this biennium, the budget for the Jacksonville State hospital is $11,095,000 which is an increase of $1,250,000 over the previous two-year period.

Fernandes said this amounts to a monthly expenditure of $450,000 for the entire hospital staff.

Patient Decrease

Over the past ten years, while the number of patients has decreased by approximately 1,000 there has been an employee increase of 400.

The most recent cause for added employees has been the completion of the million dollar laundry.

Previously, the laundry employed 38 persons, with the remainder of the work force comprised of patients.

In January and February, 1965 hiring began to bring the laundry staff to its present number of 77. This includes three seamstresses. Previously, there was one seamstress and ten patients repairing clothing.

Beginning salary for dietary and laundry employees is $255 and top is $410, which is reached in seven years.

However, Fernandes noted that salaries are increased every two years, and that the top salary of $410 would probably not remain stationary very long.

Included in the salary range is a two weeks paid vacation, 12 paid sick days, 10 paid holidays and three days off for personal business.

Other areas of employee expansion have been in the field of "housekeeping."

These jobs confine themselves with the cleaning of wards, making beds, waxing floors, and various janitorial duties in patient and employee quarters.

More Employees Needed

Fernandes related that ten persons have been employed in this area of hospital work during the past three years, and that if the budget allowed, more would be added at the next biennium.

Salaries for "housekeeping" employees range from $275 to $450 monthly.

This, he explained, frees nurses in the wards from "housekeeping chores and allows them more time to spend with the patients."

Other new jobs have included five grounds employees and personnel in the clothing department.

Nine employees have been hired in the clothing department. "Which will be all we'll be able to add during this biennium," Fernandes noted.

Clothing service aids start at $325 monthly. Fernandes commented that the budget for the next biennium would probably ask for funds to employ six more persons in this area.

Duties of these employees have been expanded to take care of needs of from 85 to 130 patients, depending on the size of the ward.

Fernandes revealed that presently, there are more registered nurses (60) at the hospital than in previous years. "We have been very successful in retaining our nurses," he said.

Staff Expansion

Fernandes confirmed that the hospital also has room for 40-50 qualified doctors, social workers, psychologists and nurses.

"Naturally, if we added 40 more to the staff, we would have to increase the number of clerical positions."

Mental health authorities maintain that mental tasks do not require a high level of education.

EXERCISE CONTROLS DROOP

Start wrinkle-preventive measures in your early 20s. One simple exercise takes only five minutes. Every morning and evening simply hang your head down toward the floor. It seems this defies gravity and the downward pull of gravity on the face has recently been cited as one of the chief cause of face droop.

Editorial Comment

Ailing President

President Johnson's solemnity as he informed White House reporters that he would soon undergo a gall bladder operation was a measure of how seriously he and others in the government regard this turn of affairs. By the same token, Americans in general surely must feel that this is a matter of some gravity, even though the outlook for the President's swift return to his usual health is most encouraging.

This sense of deep concern would not be morbid under any circumstances were the chief executive about to undergo what is, after all, a major operation. There is another reason why Americans take a particularly serious view of any presidential disability at this time. The public's thinking on this subject is colored by dark recollection of the tragedy at Dallas. Many also have in mind those times in the Eisenhower administration when grave illness rendered the president temporarily unable to perform his duties.

No prolonged inability to carry on what President Johnson calls "business as usual" is anticipated. Barring complications, the President will only have to be in the hospital for 10 days or two weeks, followed by a period of some weeks on a reduced schedule. After that, except for a possible tendency to grow tired somewhat faster than in the past, Mr. Johnson will be back to normal.

During the brief time when he is incapacitated, Vice President Humphrey will act as chief executive with the advice of the cabinet and the White House staff. He will do so on the basis of an agreement between him and the President, identical to those adopted in the Kennedy and Eisenhower regimes. It is reasonable to assume that there will be no lagging in government activity, and that Mr. Johnson will soon be back at the helm. Meanwhile, he has everyone's best wishes for a quick recovery.

Home Fire Checkup

In Jacksonville and in many other communities throughout the nation, there is a close and useful working relationship between school children and the fire department. Through this co-operation, an army of youngsters alerted to household fire hazards is deployed to check home conditions against what has been learned. Though no one can say how many fires have been prevented by this means, such a program is clearly worthwhile.

Not every household gets the benefit of it — not even every household with school-age children, since generally only one or two grades are involved each year in the training and checkup program. But there is nothing to keep adults, in households lacking "junior firemen," from undertaking a checkup on their own.

There is nothing mysterious about such a checkup; the questions to be asked are based pretty much on common sense: Are matches kept out of reach of children? Are electric cords kept in good condition, are fuses of the right size, are there enough electric circuits to handle the number of appliances used? Are paint-soaked or oily rags kept in metal containers? Are there a couple of fire extinguishers handy—and are they kept charged? Is rubbish disposed of regularly? Are combustible surfaces protected from heat sources? And so on. Others will come to mind.

Everyone knows the questions. The trick is to ask them and come up with the right answers.

Dear Ann:

Statistics Reflect Change In Teen Behavior

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: A group of us (all parents) were discussing what goes on with teenagers today. Some insisted that kids are no wilder than we were when we were teenagers. "These people claimed be-liegers teens are just getting a lot of bad publicity, that the subject of teenage sexual promiscuity has been beaten to death, that today's kids are the scape-goats for all the ills of a crazy, mixed up world."

My wife and I would be interested in hearing what you have to say. —MR. AND MRS. Dear Mr.: MOST teens are darned good kids, and when you look at the examples set by some of their parents, they look even better.

Statistics indicate that conditions are NOT precisely the same today as when we were teenagers. There are more kids in trouble today. The trouble is more serious and it comes at an earlier age than ever before. Yes, there are more teen-agers, but I am referring to percentages, not numbers.

In the last 20 years, the percentage of unwed mothers has tripled. Since 1957 the V.D. rate has tripled. (More than 60 per cent of REPORTED V.D. fall in the 13-19 years old group.)

Ten marriages are way up. Divorce is on the increase, and one good reason is the sad record of teen-age marriages. (Such marriages have one-fifth as good a chance of succeeding as a marriage between a couple in their middle 20's.)

Teen crime is up. Teen drinking is up. Teen car accidents are up. If this picture doesn't reflect a change in teen-age behavior, then I'm the Queen of Sheba.

Dear Ann Landers: I'll bet you are sick of mother-in-law problems and I hate to bother you with mine, but I need your help.

My husband and I have been married two years. He was transferred to another city five months ago and it was a God-send. His mother would not leave us alone for even one day. I was going out of my mind trying to be nice to her even though she was at our front door before my husband left for work in the morning.

Now that we have moved 200 miles away she says her heart is acting up and she knows she isn't long for this world. So we drive 400 miles every other weekend to see her. She insists that we stay at her house. My folks feel slighted and I don't blame them. My husband and I used to get along fine, but now we argue about this a lot. He says my folks are 15 years younger than his mother and she can stay with them after his mother is gone. I need your help. —BEAT DOWN

Dear Beat: Sometimes the mothers with the "weak hearts" live longer than their daughters-in-law. Alternate. One trip, stay with your folks; the next trip, with your mother-in-law.

Dear Ann Landers: Keith and I haven't been married very long, three months to be exact, and I'm afraid it will bother me until we get it talked out.

Keith went with a girl for two years before he started to go with me. Everyone who knew them figured they would be married one day. I had seen the girl three or four times but I never got to know her. She was very attractive and had a sweet personality.

Now that Keith and I are man and wife I think he should tell me all about her. I want to know how far they went and exactly why they broke up. I didn't ask him these questions while we were going together because I figured it was none of my business. But now that we are married I think everything that has to do with Keith is my business.

You are a great believer in people being honest with each other. Please print my letter and your answer. —NOTHING WITHHELD

Dear Nothing: What happened between Keith and the girl wasn't your business. THEN and it's not your business NOW.

I admire him for keeping his trap shut. He sounds like a first-rate guy to me. Keep him happy!

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Draw Game Birds Quickly

By GAYNOR MADDON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Q—My husband loves to shoot game birds. That's his favorite recreation. But often they taste a bit "off" when I cook them. What do you think is wrong?
A—Probably your husband does not draw the birds soon enough after shooting them. Call his attention to this advice from experts:

Draw the internal organs and entrails of game birds and cool birds as soon as possible. A too-common practice is not to eviscerate the birds but to throw them in the automobile trunk and forget them until the destination is reached. With no chance for the body heat to escape, the meat spoils.

Pluck a fowl shortly after it has been killed when the feathers droop. Always dry-pick the feathered game, pulling downward in the direction that the feathers grow. Remove the pinfeathers with tweezers and the down feathers by singeing with $5.95.

a lighted, twisted piece of paper. Remove the oil sac found at the base of the tail after the bird is plucked.

Q—My family enjoys wild game. Can you recommend any books or pamphlets with advice on cooking game, plus some recipes?

A—Audrey C. Burkard, extension specialist in foods and nutrition at Rutgers, the state university, New Brunswick, N.J. has compiled a booklet, "Good Hunting, Good Eating." You can write for it and it's free.

Another recommended booklet, "Game and Fish. Their Preparation and Special Cooking," published by the Moinsene Paper Mills Co. in Moinsene, Wis., also is free for the asking. A new book by Gertrude Parke, called "Going Wild in the Kitchen," contains many good recipes for grouse, pheasant, woodchuck, quail, goose, venison, etc. Published by David McKay Co., New York. Price: down feathers by singeing with $5.95.

Austria's War Wounds Heal

By BRUCE BISSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
VIENNA (NEA) — Ten years ago next month, the last foreign soldier of World War II left Austrian soil and this small land, only a bit larger than Maine, became "yesterday's trouble spot."

Today Austria is a bright place on the vastly more cheerful map of prospering postwar Europe.

Its energetic seven million people have fashioned a kind of economic viability despite the known postwar obstacles. Its governing conservative-socialist coalition achieves relative political stability in the shadow of the Iron Curtain.

There are serious economic and political problems, to be sure. But the mood is high. With the ravages of war wiped away and the Russians' exorbitant "reparations" ransom paid off, the Austrians seem undaunted by new adversities.

The shops along Vienna's celebrated Ringstrasse and busy Karntnerstrasse are literally awash with material goods. On a Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, I found these streets already crowded.

In provincial Graz, Austria's second largest city (240,000), I found the same evidences. At 10 o'clock at night, a good sprinkling of window shoppers still dotted the shopping streets.

Nor are the goods mere window dressing. Austrians appear well-attired. Young men commonly sport obviously well-made sweaters. Though summer was having a late burst of sunny warmth, women were seen everywhere in good wool suits.

New office buildings and apartments are rising in many parts of Vienna. On the southern route to Graz, small industrial towns show off many brand new individual workers' homes with gray stucco and red tile roofs.

Fresh paint catches the eye constantly. Only the former Soviet zone of Vienna looks a little decayed.

Having completed an east-west autobahn (superhighway) from Vienna to Salzburg near the German border, the Austrians are now stretching another one southward from Vienna to ward Italy. Many hard-to-maintain mountain roads are in superb condition.

The faint, not unpleasant odor of chemical fertilizer wafts toward the motorist as he spans along through the western fringes of the lush Danubian plain.

It is a symbol of Austria's intense cultivation of its limited farmland. Only 21 per cent of the land is suitable for crops, yet Austrians supply 80 per cent of the food needs of Vienna, a city of 1,650,000 (about the size of Detroit).

Austria's low - mountain hinterland makes the American visitor think of economically beleaguered West Virginia, except that here "redevelopment" on an impressive scale has already been carried out.

Town after town in cloistered little valleys has a factory of two to sustain itself and contribute markedly to Austria's now heavy industrialization.

Though the Hungarian Iron Curtain border is less than 40 miles east of Vienna, the Russians at no time have had a chance of winning the battle for Austrian minds.

Technically neutral by the terms of the 1955 peace treaty, Austria is, of course, wholly western in spirit and purpose. Remarkably, Vienna—a great world city and the historic nub of central Europe—stubbornly keeps its own soul though two world wars have brutally torn from it much of its vital economic hinterland.

Years ago the Russians built their own pavilion at the permanent Vienna international trade fair. Not long ago they gave it to the Austrians, though they still exhibit Soviet wares here and there. (Iron Curtain countries are well represented at the fair.)

Right now the Red Chinese surmount the Soviet pavilion from the Austrians. Fair officials recently had to clamp down on typical Peking efforts to use the fair exhibit to slyly display some anti-American, Viet Nam propaganda. The Austrians obviously are sensitive to any American complaints (they were registered in this case) that unneutral activities are being tolerated.

We need hardly worry seriously. The warm, friendly, well-mannered and orderly Austrians deeply grateful for crucial U.S. foreign aid at the upward turning after the war — are fiercely independent but also fiercely western in their attachment.

Red Goods Still Below Par

By BRUCE BISSAT

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
VIENNA (NEA) — The Soviet Union's overlordship clearly has not made the eastern bloc Iron Curtain countries into skilled industrial masters to be feared by the West.

If the example of tiny Austria is typical, and there is ample sign that it is, then, for the most part, the Iron Curtain lands are in the classic colonial relationship with advancing industrial western Europe—supplying foodstuffs and raw materials and taking manufactured goods in return.

Such links have long existed. The news is that they have not changed. Russia has not lifted its European satellites out of their age-old, crippling, peasant economy.

In fact, Czechoslovakia, whose western sectors long were thought of as being in the west European industrial mold, appears to have slid sadly downhill.

Austrian industrialists tell the visitor from overseas that one will find few manufactured products from behind the Iron Curtain in the great markets of Britain, West Germany, France, Austria, Italy and the Low Countries.

These products are generally neither wanted nor trusted, and in many instances could not be had even if they were desired. Particularly, they are not sought after by western industrialists otherwise eager to search out new parts suppliers.

"We always have trouble with specifications," says an official of Austria's leading maker of electric motors, Elin-Union.

This and general lack of quality are the big complaints. The difficulties are compounded by frequent failure to make delivery dates, and by westerners' disgust over the incredible bureaucratic red tape in the Communist lands.

Says Dr. Erich Moretti, export manager for Steyr-Daimler-Puch, makers of motorcars, motorcycles, bicycles and other products:

"You can't find the right man to give you exact answers. If you write a letter, you may wait six to eight weeks for a reply."

This sort of thing really is an old story, especially familiar to underdeveloped countries who have received Soviet and Iron Curtain "foreign aid." Again, the news is that matters are hardly better than they were a decade ago.

The curiosity is that satellite countries badly need hard western currencies and should be eager to shape up to meet the stiff tests of western markets. They can't seem to make it.

Austrian industrialists are plainly relieved that Austrians are touring more these days behind the Iron Curtain. They want the satellite peoples to have the hard currency with which to buy Austrian goods. But they don't care to buy Communist manufactures to put money in their hands. Iron Curtain products are much in evidence at Vienna's international trade fair, but the visitor moving around the country sees little of them in use.

The foreign imports most visible are of German, American and, sometimes, British origin. Nevertheless, Austria's trade with the eastern Red bloc is growing. In the first three months of 1965, imports from these nations were up 17 per cent over the comparable 1964 period, while Austria's exports beyond the Curtain rose nearly 24 per cent.

The proportion of Austria's total imports purchased in the satellites thus climbed from 9.6 per cent to 10.3. The satellites' share of Austria's exports moved up from 13 per cent to 14.2.

Austria does need to import large amounts of electric power. Aside from that, the big imports, characteristically, are of agricultural produce and such raw materials as coal, of which the country has very little of high grade.

A new trade agreement with Romania, taking effect next January, is intended to match Romanian farm produce against Austrian shipments of industrial merchandise.

For 20 years the boastful Soviets have imposed their "system" upon the satellites. Today, obviously, they are still in the colonial posture toward the West which has marked their economies ever since the close of World War II. The hard stuff of effective Red propaganda cannot be found in such a record.

FINDING THE WAY

Are YOU Honest?

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Of the major moral crises of our time, none is more important than the problem of honesty. That simple virtue is tested in more profound ways than just being truthful in reporting one's income, or in the day-by-day exchange of money for goods.

It has to do with honesty in art and architecture as well as in economics. It has to do with the reporting of news as well as a tendency to lie about one's age or weight. It involves integrity in urban planning and political arrangements as well as in advertising and in the selling of merchandise. It has to do with testimony in courts as well as in quiz shows.

Chiefly, it has to do with being honest with one's own self, for the final degradation of the human being would be to believe a lie, and to act on it, when you had told it to yourself!

In a sense one of the chief enemies of integrity is convention. Keeping in step with the customs of the office, or of the neighborhood or of suburbia can drive a normally honest person into all kinds of subtle frauds. When a whole civilization perpetuates this kind of deceit, we breed the hypocrisy which many detect as the sickness of our time.

The fact that a book such as "Catcher in the Rye" is so significant is not only in terms of its artistic structure; it is in its examination of an adolescent's idea that all of his elder's are phonies. He fails to find integrity in his parents, his teachers or his peers.

In the past few months significant and frank statements have been issued by Protestant and Roman Catholic leaders concerning this need for honesty in the church. One major denomination presented a report stating that the church member who joins in a prayer that prejudice and hatred be removed from his heart and then goes into his home or neighborhood to do nothing about it, indulges in blasphemy. That's strong language but then the offense is blatant. To pray "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done," and not to actually desire that will in personal living is a form of dishonesty.

Obviously, our national and international problems require more than honesty. An honest Communist is still a problem. An honest Ku Klux Klansman is still a threat. George Forell, a theologian and philosopher, once said: "You cannot inherit truth; you cannot learn truth as you learn the Gettysburg Address. Ultimate truth must be believed. . . not by accepting propositions about God as true we do serve him in truth, but by letting his truth work in us so that in every act of our lives we bear witness to his truth."

It is this integrity which is a cornerstone in individual and social behavior. We have no more urgent problem than just to be honest with ourselves and to share that understanding of ultimate truth in all that we are!

The Mature Parent

Behind the Child's 'No'

By Mrs. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE:

My little grandson, though not 3, is quite discernible. When my daughter calls him to come in for a meal or to put on a sweater, he shouts "No!" and runs away. He runs away in stores and on the street, too. I don't remember my own children being so contrary as he is at this age. I can see how tired my daughter is getting of always having to stop what she's doing to run after him.

ANSWER: So long as she catches him. A small child's "No!" does not contain the same meaning as our "no's," any more than his legs are the same length as ours.

Into our "no" to someone's invitation to come to a meal, for example, goes all kinds of knowledge — that we have a prior luncheon date or that the Weather Bureau has forecast rain. Our "no's" are the products of much experience.

But the small child's "no" is his "no." He feels obliged to get not such a substantial product, solemn about it, too. Shocked it's just a word he's discovered and disappointed by our refusal to admit his ability to shout "no," he begins to get mad. He shouts it out of himself. It's very hard on him the same intoxication with his new powers that he feels when he took and get called a "bad" boy for the first "no" he shouts.

run away from us or that his bath water jumps when he splashes it.

And we, idiots that we are, respond to him as though he were the Soviet delegate to the United Nations saying "no" to our appeal for understanding in the Viet Nam mess.

This solemnly outraged response to his "no!" fills him with astonishment, as he had no intention of impressing us with it but was entirely absorbed in the deliciousness of saying it.

It's because his "no" isn't addressed to us at all that we pay no attention to it. And having caught him, we carry him into the house for lunch without any of the solemnly outraged feeling appropriate when the Soviet delegate says "No."

To characterize him as "disobedient" and "contrary" is like hitting a butterfly with a sledge hammer.

What's more, such a view of him makes serious his baby opposition. Noting the solemn irritation with which we respond to his "no," he feels obliged to get not such a substantial product, solemn about it, too. Shocked it's just a word he's discovered and disappointed by our refusal to admit his ability to shout "no," he begins to get mad. He shouts it out of himself. It's very hard on him the same intoxication with his new powers that he feels when he took and get called a "bad" boy for the first "no" he shouts.

In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Some may have been shocked when Frank Sinatra, 49, went yachting with Mia Farrow, 19 — and Cary Grant, 61, wed Dyan Cannon, 27, a few months ago.

It didn't stir Hollywood much. That's because many December-May marriages in Hollywood have worked out well.

Linda Christian sums it up this way: "I was 17 when Errol Flynn discovered me in Mexico. Then he brought me to Hollywood and by the time I was 18, I was too old for him."

George Jessel, who describes himself as the act that was to follow John Wilkes Booth at Ford's Theater the night Lincoln was shot, once had a 16-year-old wife.

Edward G. Robinson was 64 when he married dress designer Jane Adler, 38. That was 1958. He is now 71 and still happily married.

One of the most successful marriages is that of Bing Crosby and Kathie Lee. Bing was 53 and Kathie 28 when they married in 1957. Bing, who had four sons by his first wife, now has two boys and a girl by Kathie.

One of the most durable of the May-December marriages is that of Charlie Chaplin, then 54, and Oona O'Neill, daughter of playwright Eugene O'Neill, and then 17. Charlie is now 76 and Oona is still mad about him. They have eight children.

What's the reason for the craze in Hollywood?

Hollywood men not only are young in looks, they are young in heart. Sinatra is hipper than any teen-ager. They speak his language, not he theirs.

When Mia Farrow was introduced to Sinatra, she was so scared she stuttered. Frank's charm immediately captivated the pretty blonde.

"I feel more at ease with Frank than with any boy my own age," says Mia.

In Hollywood, many young actors take themselves much too seriously. Actress Joan Caulfield said one day: "I would never marry a young Hollywood actor. What woman wants to race for the mirror every morning?"

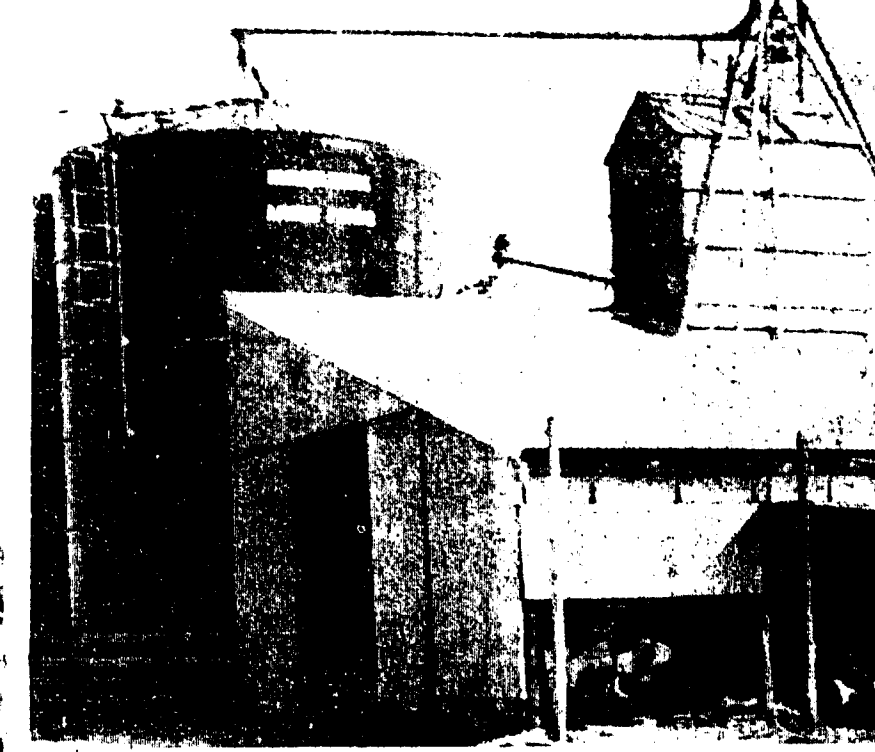

Debbie Reynolds and Eddie Fisher, both teen-age idols, didn't hit it off as man and wife. But Debbie is now happily wed to Harry Karl, 17 years her senior.

One of the most solid marriages in town is that of John Wayne and his Pilar. Duke has 22 years on his pretty Peruvian wife. But Pilar comments: "Duke is really much younger than I."

Not all May-December marriages work out. Zsa Zsa Gabor was 36 years younger than hotelman Conrad Hilton and it wasn't the age difference that bothered her.

"I was in Conrad's arms on our wedding night and he was very thoughtful," she recalls. "I asked him what he was thinking about. He told me: 'I was thinking I would like to buy the Blackstone Hotel in Chicago.'"

Corn Crib, Feed Mills — Not What They Used To Be!

More than 60 persons turned out for a tour of the new grain storage bin, but cold air fans or hot air blowers kick the excess water through the bin. Morgan and Scott counties and to learn top of the bin. The largest bin, with a capacity of 13,500 bushels, is shown in the photo. The LP tank at left supplies the fuel for the hot air blower which appears at the ground level, right. The bins are filled by an electric powered auger, which shuts itself off when the bin is full.

Leland Werries explained the cropping system used on the farm. They like to have about 60 acres of early soybeans, and combine when they test about 16% moisture. The beans are placed in a ventilated bin and only cool air is used to bring them down to safe storage levels.

Then the picker head is put on the new year. Most of the corn is fed to hogs, the Werries will raise 190 hogs this year. The soybeans are held in storage until a price bulge in the first quarter of the new year. Most of the corn is fed to hogs, the Werries will raise 190 hogs this year.

A Handy Feed Grinder
All hog feed is milled and mixed with proteins, minerals, vitamins and antibiotics on the farm. The second picture shows Henry Pahlmann of Chapin, Roger Hous-ton and his father, Robert, of route 1, and George Shafer, Jacksonville, as they step over an inclosed auger which conveys the grain from the storage bin to an automated mill. To operate it all you have to do is set some dials to regulate the flow of ingredients and turn on the five-horse motor. The mill will grind and blend one to two tons of feed per hour, depending on the fineness desired, and when the job is complete the mill shuts itself off, along with all allied augers.

This particular mill has been gladly accepted by livestock feeders of west central Illinois. Thus far the company has made 5,000 of them and of this number Farm Automation, Inc., of Jacksonville has installed 500.

Monday's second stop was at the farm west of Merritt operated by Howard Hurrelbrink and his son, Gary. This partnership specializes in purebred Angus and feeder cattle and raises 800-1,600 head of hogs annually.

A Handy Setup
Of special interest to the visitors was the grain storage and handling unit, which includes a completely automated feed factory. A view of the unit is shown in the third photo.

The grain is dumped into a pit and then conveyed to the bin desired. Corn harvested when moist is placed into two 3,500 bushel capacity sealed cylinders known as Harvestores. But it can be placed in regular steel bins and dried down to desired moisture levels.

Later grain can be taken from the bottom of each bin and augered to the mill. Feed for the 200 head of cattle and 500 head of hogs now on the place is ground fresh daily; at the present time 600 bushels of corn, plus additives, are required weekly.

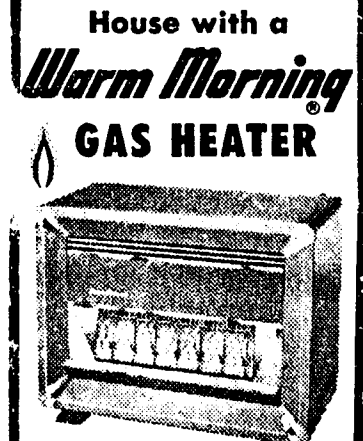

The feed is blown into a wagon equipped with a rear-end delivery auger which drops it into fence-line troughs for the cattle and self-feeders for the hogs.

Very Little Trouble
"There's little trouble connected with the feed factory," says Howard Hurrelbrink, shown at right as he explained the operation to the visitors, which included the junior and senior vocational agriculture students of Bluffs high school and their instructor, Bernard Goetze.

"All you have to do is set the dials and control switches, turn it on and go about your business. The chief trouble we had at the first was not enough power on some of the augers, as the five horse motors that came with them proved to be a little light in the pants. But we cured that by replacing them with seven and a half horse motors. Of course there is always the chance of mechanical failure on the part of a control switch, but the only damage has been a burnt-out belt and I can't foresee any other possible damage."

Sims, the district ag engineer, applauded the installations on both farms and complimented "everybody responsible for some good advance planning, which is so obvious this morning."

Wheat 'Sign-Up' Deferred Until Next Spring

No fall sign-up is expected to be held for any 1966 wheat program which may be made available, says Lester E. Martin, chairman, Morgan County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

Legislation now is under consideration by Congress which would authorize continuation of a voluntary wheat certificate and a feed grain program. If these programs are enacted into law, the intention is to hold concurrent sign-ups for both wheat and feed grains next spring.

While the wheat legislation now considered exempts the 1966 wheat crop from marketing quotas it does provide for wheat allotment is smaller. By law therefore been determined for next year's wheat crop as presently authorized and notices of official farm wheat allotments for 1966 have been mailed to producers.

"Additional program information is dependent upon action by the Congress and will be made available to producers as soon as possible," Martin said. According to the chairman, the official farm wheat allotments for 1966 are lower than for 1965 because the national allotment is smaller. By law the national acreage allotment is established at an amount which is expected to produce the total quantity of wheat required to meet anticipated needs. The total wheat needed for 1966 is about the same as was needed for 1965, but the general increase in yields means that the needed quantity can be produced on fewer acres.

Nationally, the reduction in allotment acres is about 3.4 per cent.

BRIMFUL and running over By Jim Brim

Don't neglect your livestock during harvest season. It doesn't take much time to give them proper care, but it is necessary to give them time at the right time. Keep feed and water before them in appetizing condition.

Watch those hogs beds and keep them clean and dry. Wet beds for hogs in cold weather spell trouble.

Castrate and vaccinate pigs as early as is practical. Many people don't vaccinate for hog cholera but we have more outbreaks over the state every month, so vaccination is good insurance.

We know much to help prevent and treat shipping fever in cattle, but every year we have many cases of it. This is the time of year and kind of weather to develop it in cattle that are subjected to stress.

So take steps to prevent it before you move cattle, etc. Your veterinarian is the man with the answers in regard to animal and disease prevention.

NOW YOU SHOULD . . .
... Poison rats — especially around grain storage buildings

... Ask the wife to make a pumpkin pie.

... Take soil samples and have them tested.

... Look for feeder cattle.

... Be sure machinery that you move on roads is well marked.

... Look at the fall color.

... Eat apples.

As winter approaches consider your farmstead and remember those dark places of last winter and make provisions to install lights in those places.

Straighten up that farm shop and make it comfortable to work in this winter. Time spent in the shop during the winter repairing and building equipment is time very well spent and you will be more apt to do it if you have a decent place to work.

Be careful about getting into a rut. A rut is a grave without ends.

Picker Adjustment Specially Important When Corn Is Down

URBANA—Nature unleashed her fury with apparent single-mindedness against Illinois cornfields this summer. Wind damage, insect attacks and the worst incidence of stalk rot in 20 years combined to create a bumper crop of headaches for farmers.

Some fields in the state are beyond salvage. In these areas, the farmer's No. 1 decision now is how to keep the downed corn from growing voluntarily next spring and playing havoc with 1966 crops.

Most farmers have fields that can be harvested. But keeping field losses to a minimum will challenge picker operators to the limit.

"As corn dries, field losses go up," explains U. of I. agricultural engineer Wendell Bowers. "And with the lodging, we've seen in fields this fall, it looks as if many farmers will start picking with losses equal to those normally seen toward the end of the picking season."

Bowers points out that farmers with sufficient dryer capacity should get into the field as soon as possible. Losses can only get worse as corn dries and continues to go down.

"You can harvest ear corn containing up to 35 percent moisture without damaging the kernel," Bowers explains. "Shelled corn harvest can start at 30 percent, although you'll get some damage from 30 percent down to around 26 percent."

How About Snapping Rolls?
Bowers offers a number of tips for getting maximum yields from downed stalks.

"Make sure picking equipment is working at top efficiency," he explains. "Think back to last year. Did you have any trouble with plugging? Was the machine picking dirtier than usual? In either case, you can be suspicious of the snapping rolls."

U. of I. agricultural engineers stress the need to replace the snapping rolls if any trouble can be traced to them. Rolls that have picked as many as 350 to 400 acres should be especially suspected.

A Good Investment
"Put in new rolls and new bearings, and check the gathering chains and husking bed," Bowers advises. "It may cost you as much as $300 to get

"But, if you have checked with your dealer, put picker rolls in top condition, selected the right machine and ground speed and adjusted the picker snouts to get more aggressive action and to catch lower ears, you can at least feel that you've done all that's possible to get maximum corn harvest," he explains.

FARMERS SHARE OF CONSUMERS DOLLAR UP!

Figures recently released by the U.S.D.A. indicate that during the second quarter of this year, the farmers share of the consumers dollar rose to 40%. Farmers share of the food dollar varies widely. For example, butter returned 72% of each dollar the housewife spent for canned beets. Other foods stack up like this — per cent of retail food dollar received by farmers, the primary producer in each case. Beef 60%, pork and lamb 59%, milk sold in stores 45%, delivered to homes 40%, peanut butter 31%, white bread 14%, apples 31%, oranges 24% and orange juice 42%, canned peaches 16%.

The difference, of course, is made up of transportation, processing, packaging, warehousing and similar expenses.

How Space Race Began

By Walter B. Hendrickson, Jr.

The space race between the United States and Russia actually got its start in Germany over twenty years ago.

In January 1945 the German rocket scientists held an emergency meeting at their test site at Peenemunde on the Baltic coast. For nearly thirteen years they had been the unwilling, and often unrewarded, developers of Hitler's Vengeance Weapon Two—the V-2.

Arrested by Gestapo they would far rather have applied their time and talent to the peaceful exploration of space. Indeed, only a year earlier Werner von Braun and two of his associates had been arrested by the Gestapo for just this and released only because they were needed to finish the V-2.

Now the Allies were invading Germany from all sides. Rapidly advancing Russian troops were barely seventy-five miles from Peenemunde. The scientists had had enough of life under a dictator so they decided to throw in their lot with the Americans.

They packed all the plans they could carry, burned the rest with volatile rocket fuel and fled to Nordhausen in Bavaria near the underground V-2 factory. With their families they settled down in the nearby village of Bleicherode Ost, to wait for the Americans to arrive.

Plans Ordered Destroyed Just five days before the U.S. troops rolled in the Secret Police ordered the scientists to destroy their plans and join Hitler for a last ditch stand in his Alpine fortress. Rather than burn their plans the scientists hid them in the salt mines in the Harz (pronounced Hartz) mountains. They hid themselves from the Secret Police whom they feared would kill them rather than let them fall into Allied hands.

Russ Get Engineers Although the Peenemunde team escaped, the Secret Police got 400 engineers from the V-2 plant. Most of these later wound up in Soviet hands. This gave the Russians a chance to claim that, "for every German rocket expert in American hands we got four or five." Actually, the amount of knowledge gained by both countries was about equal.

On April 11, 1945 the United States Army rumbled into Nordhausen. On learning this, Von Braun's younger brother Magnus was sent out to find someone to whom they could surrender.

Operation Paperclip After the Peenemunde scientists gave themselves up the Americans began Operation Paperclip. Nordhausen was to be in the Soviet zone so all the scientists, their plans and the V-2s had to be removed speedily.

The Americans loaded up 300 carloads of V-2s and V-2 parts and in June 1945 they evacuated the remaining German scientists and four truckloads of their plans just a few hours ahead of the advancing Russians. The equipment at the factory and a few V-2s had to be left behind to be taken by the Russians.

Big vs. Small Rockets From this beginning both the United States and Russia built their post war rocket and space programs. The United States chose to build small rockets and miniaturize (make small) the equipment carried by them. The Russians on the other hand concentrated on building rockets large enough to carry the equipment on hand. This is why the Russian satellites and space probes now weigh more than ours.

However, in the process of making our equipment smaller we also made it more reliable. This is why our Mariner IV made it to Mars but the Soviet Zond III failed.

SNIPER HUNTER

By John Rankin

It was only ten o'clock of a balmy Saturday night in late summer. But already the village seemed deserted as twelve-year old Paul Newman stood on the corner and peered down the street to where a single light glowed faintly in Murphy's little grocery at the end of the block.

Paul hesitated a moment and then moved on down the street to the little store. An elderly and slightly built man wearing a white apron looked up from behind the counter as he stopped in the doorway to peer dubiously in. "You closed up, sir?" he asked quietly. My mom sent me for a loaf of bread, but it's too late I'll...

"Then come right in and get it, sonny," the old storekeeper said with a good-natured grin. Reckon it's never too late when there's something folks need." Not Like Big City The youngster's face lit up with a big smile as he swooped in and grabbed a loaf of bread from the rack and dropped the money on the counter. "It's not like this where we lived in the city," he said. "All the stores there are pretty funny about letting folks in after closing time."

The elderly merchant scooped up the change and put it in a cash box behind the counter and turned to peer thoughtfully at the youth a moment before he said. "We're a bit different from city folks, son. Reckon you're meet Bill and Sam at the old here right lately, eh?" "Yes, sir. Are you Mr. Murphy?" "Yes, but folks call me Tom. Hope you like our little village. (To Be Continued)

Let's Go Birding

The Cleanly Great Blue

By Emma Mae Leonhard

Some birds may be so small and some so quick in their actions that they are hard to see or to identify. The Great Blue Heron is neither. Aside from the Sandhill Crane, it is the largest wading bird in our northern states, displaying its seven-foot wing-span on its masterful flights. It also stands about four feet tall as it carefully and patiently waits for a fish to approach it.

The Great Blue Heron must be a very tidy bird too. At least three of us felt so as we watched the actions of one on an August afternoon at Smith Lake not far from Meredosia.

As we stood on the shore of the lake admiring the great expanse of water lilies stretching on both sides of us and watching some white American Egrets posed motionless at the water's edge waiting for a passing fish, we saw a Great Blue rowing its powerful slate-gray wings through the air to the opposite bank of the lake.

Fish In Beak This great bird let itself carefully down in the shallow water. From its long spear-like beak dangled a long fish.

We wondered how it could have carried such a long one. It slapped and splashed the wriggling fish from several times in the water and let loose of it, watching it carefully for a short time.

Soon the fish splashed itself. Immediately the towering motionless form of the Great Blue went into action. It stabbed the live fish three times with its sharp-pointed bill and then, motionless again, watched its victim carefully.

In due time the Heron grasped the limp fish in its bill and waded out into deeper water. There after swishing the fish back and forth several times, it raised its cleaned prey high in the air, twisted it around until its head pointed down the long throat, and with one gulp swallowed it whole. The Great Blue Heron's feat seemed to us almost as great as the whale's swallowing Jonah, and we are confident that it was a cleaner one.

Prayer Poem—

Don't Blame

Poor Tom

By Mary Pence Claywell

Hungry Tomcat... though 'tis sad,

Isn't altogether... bad,

When he springs upon a bird... People too... might look absurd.

I was petting Tom one day... Suddenly, he sprang away,

Lighted on a tender bird... Without warning... or "cat word."

He gulped it down, as quick as a wink,

And then... I took the time to think:

Tom was hungry... not a sinner.

I too had... a "steak" for dinner.

God provides things with proper portion. Yet, it's "true," at His Discretion. Everything, of "flesh," must "dine."

Proper place... and proper time;

But His Perfect Plan's Completion,

Shows us we should use discretion:

Tom was "hungry," wisdom sound,

He didn't paw the bird around

I looked around, and as I turned,

A Robin... picked a squirming "worm,"

And though, my "steak" hour long was done,

A "cow"... grazed near-by, in the sun;

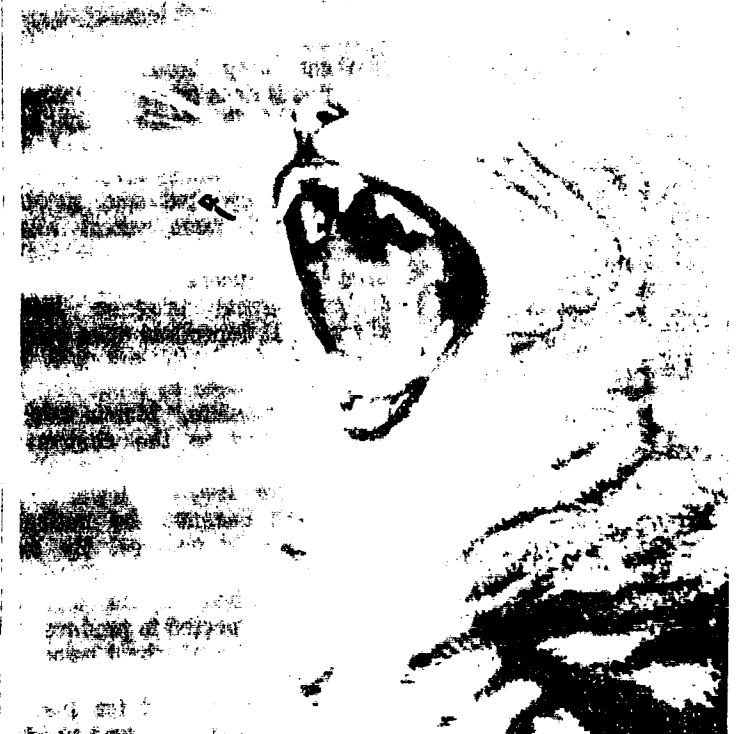

I felt so sad... then there was light:

What God Provides, in need, is right:

Tom's forgiven... not to blame The Robin's fed... and life's the same;

And so, with thanks, we'll quietly feed

On what God Sendeth us, in need!

A psychic bid by the American North backfired on board 54 of the match and cost us five International Match Points.

His bid wasn't exactly a psychic bid, but rather a nuisance bid, since he did have three spades for his spade call. It didn't take the Italians long to find their spade fit.

East doubled. South went to two diamonds. West called two spades and East raised him to game.

South might have saved at five diamonds because he was not vulnerable but it was possible that his partner held enough spades to embarrass his opponents. In any event he knew that he would be set at five diamonds and no one gets rich taking sure losses.

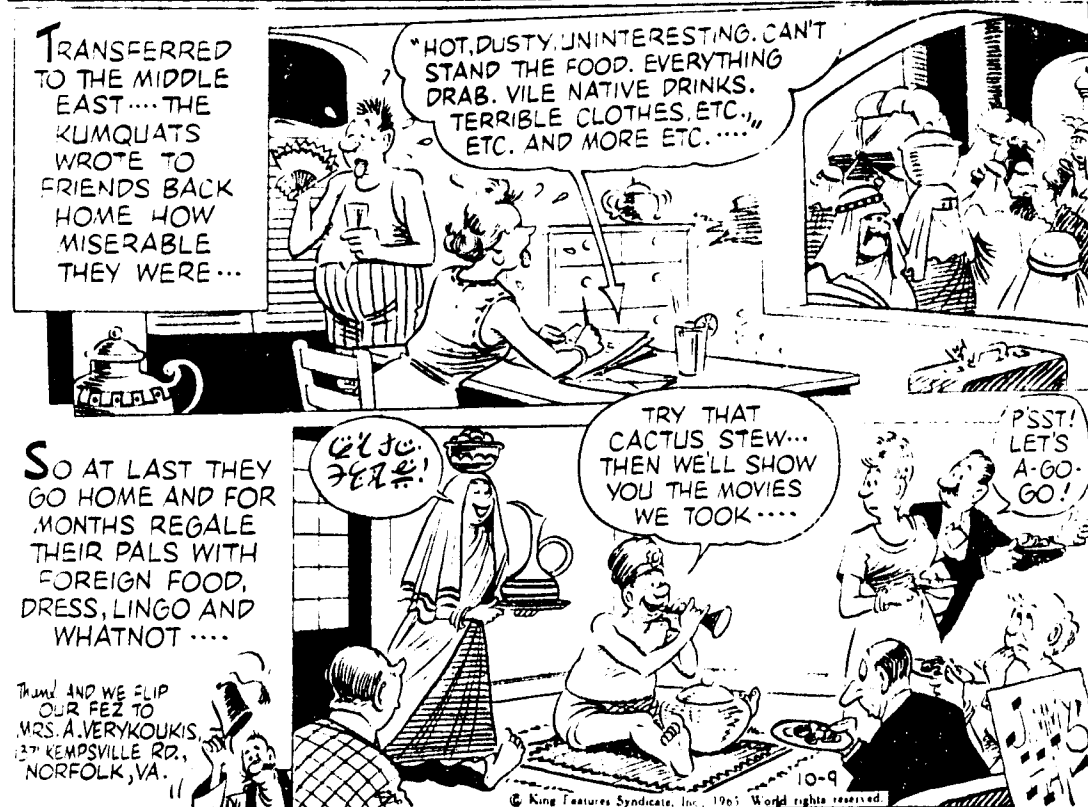

Strangely enough there was no need for the American team to lose on this board. At the other table the bidding was very spirited and Italy saved at six diamonds after we had gone to five spades.

If West had been looking at all the cards he could have opened a club. The defense would have cashed two clubs right off the bat and would collect two hearts and a diamond later on for a 700-point penalty.

Unfortunately for us he wasn't looking at all the cards and opened a spade. This gave South a chance for an immediate club

3 P's - Populations, Prices And Programs To Set Sales Volume

The volume of future sales of farm products will depend on many factors, including prices, population growth, economic development, international relations and government farm programs, reports a University of Illinois policy and outlook economist.

In presenting a long-range outlook for agriculture at the National Agricultural Credit Conference recently, L. H. Simerl emphasized that the effect of prices on the sale of U. S. farm products is not universally recognized, even by economists.

"If the effects of prices on sales volume were more generally understood," Simerl said, "there would be much less support for production control programs as the means for raising farmers' incomes."

Farm prices are made where sales are made, Simerl noted. Therefore, it is logical to assume that prices for U. S. farm products are made, or strongly influenced, by economic and political developments around the world.

The mechanisms for bringing buyers and sellers together are changing and will change more, but this change will not greatly affect the prices received for farm products, he added.

Some basic price-making forces will originate on the farm and will be effective through modifying costs of production. Other basic price-making forces will originate in the factories of the world and will be reflected in demand.

Lessened Influence?
Congress will continue to exert an important influence on farm product prices, Simerl said. But as the traditional farm of the past disappears and agricultural production takes on more characteristics of industry, the influence of farmers will decrease. As a result, they may then expect less special legislation.

Marketing orders, contracts and bargaining may be used increasingly, but such arrangements are not likely to have marked long-time effects on farm product prices, Simerl observed.

Future farm costs will be de-res—an area equal to about one-fourth of the acreage now being used to produce grains, oilseeds and cotton.

Any sudden and extensive decrease in government aid to farmers would require most of them to drastically readjust their financial affairs, he said.

To Organize '65 CROP Campaign

The Morgan county board and township chairmen of the Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP) will meet at 6 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 17, at Hamilton's Cafe to begin organization for annual solicitation held each November.

Funds contributed to CROP are used to buy surplus foods which are shipped to hungry lands to be distributed directly by the churches.

Paul McGrath of Murrayville and Rev. Glenn Garvin of Franklin are co-chairmen of the board. Other officers are James Fox, Lynnville, vice president; Edward Scott, route 2, secretary; Edwin Clayton, Nortonville, treasurer, and George Trull, Morgan county farm adviser, publicity director.

Four To Attend Fall Conference

Agriculture and home economics extension personnel assigned to Morgan county will spend the first part of the week attending the annual fall conference held on the U.I. campus at Urbana.

Conference sessions will begin at noon Monday and close Wednesday afternoon. Attending from here will be Home Adviser Frances Webb and her assistant, Miss Carolyn Calvert; Farm Adviser George Trull and his assistant, Ralph Romig.

Trull will remain another day to attend a special school for farm advisers who will hold county "corn clinics" during the winter. The Morgan county clinic is tentatively scheduled for January.

ILLINOIS OUTLOOK LETTER

HOG NUMBERS DOWN 12 PERCENT

Hog prices will continue at unusually high levels for at least 12 months. This conclusion is based on the USDA quarterly Pig Crop Report released late in September. Here are some of the important facts from that report.

The report covers the ten corn-belt states. These states, ranked in order of number of hogs produced, are Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Minnesota, Nebraska, Ohio, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Kansas. The report is based on a survey made about September 1.

Twelve percent fewer hogs. Farmers in the ten corn-belt states had 43.2 million hogs and pigs on hand September 1. This number was 12 percent less than they reported on hand a year before and 16 percent less than two years earlier. Most of these hogs will make up the market supply from September 1 to April 1.

The number actually marketed may be reduced more than 12 percent if farmers hold back extra gilts to increase farrowings next year.

All weight groups smaller. Farmers have been selling their hogs promptly as they reach desirable market weights. On September 1 they had only 902,000 market hogs weighing over 200 pounds, 17 percent less than a year before. They marketed most of those hogs before September 15.

At the same time, they had an estimated 2,757,000 hogs weighing 180 to 220 pounds, 11 percent less than last year. They will probably market most of these hogs between September 1 and October 15.

Hogs weighing 120 to 179 pounds numbered 5,191,000, or 4 percent less than last year. They will make up most of the market supply from October 1 to late November.

Hogs weighing 60 to 119 pounds were estimated at 8,058,000, down 9 percent from a year ago. They will head for market mostly from November 15 to January 1.

The number of pigs weighing under 60 pounds was listed at 19,297,000, or 13 percent less than last year. Most of these pigs will be sold as market hogs from January 1 to April 1.

Fall farrowings cut 5 percent. When surveyed the first of September, farmers reported that they were reducing fall farrowings (September, October, November) 5 percent from a year ago. This would be the second year of reduction—they cut farrowings 7 percent during this period last year.

They changed their plans slightly during the summer. On June 1, they reported that they would cut farrowings in the fall quarter by 8 percent.

Winter farrowings—same as last year? Farmers reported that they planned to have about the same number of sows farrow during the winter quarter (December, January, February) as farrowed last year. We will guess, however, that farrowings will begin to exceed year-before levels soon after January 1.

We will guess further that there will be a moderate increase, say 5 to 10 percent, in the spring (March, April, May) quarter.

In conclusion, we expect hog prices to hold at unusually profitable levels through 1966. As of now, the next no-profit period in hog production seems likely to come in late 1967 or early 1968.

100 YEARS AGO

You Oughta Been Here Yesterday

The other day I was perched on a stool in a favored oasis when a boy came in the front door and approached the cigaret vending machine. I judge he was 8-9 years old, but small for his age.

He pulled some coins out of his pocket, checked them over, tip-toed to put two in the correct slots, and pulled the plug with practiced ease. He repeated the operation and was out of the place in 20 seconds or so, with two packages of cigarets.

I mused, "Progress is wonderful. If we'd had cigaret venders 50 years ago Pete Gingery couldn't have rooked me out of my licorice money."

Pete ran a combination confectionery, tobacco shop and pool room on the north side of the square in Mt. Pulaski, Logan county. He was short and squat, 230 pounds on a massive frame, with dancing brown eyes and ruddy complexion. His hair distribution was a little unusual: a completely bald pate, extremely heavy dark brown eyebrows and a king-sized walrus mustache. He was a first generation American of Alsace-Lorraine ancestry and could talk loud and long in English, German and French.

Many unusual things happened to him, always on the previous day, and his favorite expression was "You oughta been here yesterday."

The Big Bonanza
In the spring of 1915 my father bought me three Oneida steel "jump" traps with the understanding I would use them to hold down the ground squirrel population on the farm. The pay was to be a nickel for an ordinary striped ground squirrel and a quarter for the much larger, crop-destroying grey squirrel.

For some time it was a nickel one day, nothing the next, but one Wednesday morning in late June I hit the jackpot, two stripes and one grey, 35c.

The account was settled at noon and by 1 p.m. the money was burning the proverbial hole in the pocket and I yearned for some licorice buttons — 4 for a penny at Rinaldo Berton's candy store. It didn't take long to saddle Sailor, my black Shetland pony, and head for Mt. Pulaski, three and a half miles to the east.

Hailed By Hayers
About midway, at the Pete Ophardt farm, Ronnie Bell, Jimmy Cox and Fritz Swartz were loading clover hay. Ronnie was on the rack wagon and Jimmy and Fritz were pitching from the windrow. Fritz was a first-class man in a hayfield. He claimed he "chust loved to throw up hay in the field," and it is apparent that he did except on some Mondays after he had spent Saturday night and Sunday in Mt. Pulaski or Lake Fork. On those days he appeared very weak and extremely thirsty; his usual lusty appetite was absent at dinner time and he'd thus explain, "Out of kilter my stomach is; I drunk a gallon of water already this morning I bet."

Going past the field Jimmy waved me over and asked if I was going to Mt. Pulaski and would I get him some cigarets. I told him none of the merchants would sell me cigarets, as there had been a law recently passed forbidding their sale to kids. Jimmy said Pete Gingery "would sell them to anybody with the money."

Thereupon he gave me a dime for two packages of Sweet Caporals and Ronnie pitched down a nickel for some American Chiefs.

The Big Mistake
I should have bought my licorice before I went to Pete's place, but I didn't.

Pete was holding court, you might say. He was seated in a massive quarter-sawn oak rocking chair his wife had gotten by buying her groceries on "the Larkin plan." As usual he was holding a fly swatter, for flies had a great affinity for Pete's bald head. The first fly of spring and the last fly of fall could be found buzzing around Pete.

Three men were seated on a old sofa and a chair with the cane bottom busted out as Pete said. "Boys, you oughta been here yesterday. You'd seen something you could tell your grand-children about."

"I just sitting here, about the same time of the day as now, when a drummer for a Peoria coffee house came in. He was all duded up and you could have shaved by the shine on his yellow button shoes."

"He pulled out a solid gold watch and flicked the lid on it and said: Pete I understand you are the best pool player in these parts."

"I said: Such has been said. He said: Pete, I've called on my accounts here and have

EARTHQUAKE IN SAN FRANCISCO

We illustrate on this page the recent earthquake in San Francisco, the most severe shock of the kind ever known in that city.

The shock occurred at 1:15 p.m., Oct. 8, frightening almost the entire population from their houses into the streets. During half a minute there were two tremendous shocks, which caused the buildings to rock to and fro in a manner altogether alarming. It was Sunday, and services were just over in the churches; the congregation of the Unitarian church was being dismissed when the shock commenced, and the excitement among the women and children threatened serious consequences. The rush from the Catholic church on Vallejo Street was so great that the doors to the main entrance were carried away, and several persons were injured by being trampled upon.

We show in this sketch the injury done to a building on Third and Mission streets. Two-thirds of the front fell into the street, and a small section of the side into an adjoining building. The rear wall of the upper story fell upon and through a frame building.

The motion of the shock appeared to be from east to west. The tide, as is usual in such cases, rose to an unusual height.

The earthquake of 1865 was indeed small potatoes compared with the great Pacific quake of 1906. Thousands perished on April 17 when the earth shook, and the accompanying tidal wave swept over the island of Formosa.

California, particularly San Francisco and the coastline 40 miles to the north, was hit the next day, accounting for a known death list of 452 and property damage set at $350,000,000.

Which is the oldest tree known to man? The elder tree, of course.

Why are some fortunes like ships? Because they are built on stocks.

Really the rhetoric of puff writers is getting to be intolerable. One of them, in praising a new quality of wine, declares that "it is as pure as the tears which falls upon a sister's grave."

What two sciences are employed by teamsters? Haw-ticulture and gee-ology.

A certain way of keeping eggs from spoiling; eat them while they're fresh.

How to discover your real worth. — Become suddenly poor.

QUITE RIGHT — A sentimental young lady having asked a gentleman why he did not secure some fond one's company across the ocean of life, replied that he would do so, were he certain the said ocean would be Pacific.

Why is a stale egg like a wicked companion? Because he's a bad egg-sample.

A well-known lawyer had a horse that always stopped and refused to cross the mill-dam bridge leading out of the city. No whipping, no urging, would get him across. So he advertised him. "To be sold for no other reason than that the owner wants to get out of town."

At a recent church fair held in the vicinity of Taunton, a set of Cooper's Works was promised to the individual who should answer a certain set of conundrums. The winner received a set of wooden pails.

Jeff. Thompson says the only persons in the South at the present time who wish to do any more fighting are those who did not do any when they had the chance.

It is estimated that the tobacco crop in the valley of the Connecticut river this year will be equal to the value of six millions of dollars! Large quantities of Connecticut seed are exported to Cuba.

Gottschalk, the celebrated pianist, has been creating a great sensation in California, not by his musical talent, but, as alleged, by aiding two young ladies to escape from their boarding school at night.

Lieut. Cushing, who destroyed the Albemarle, will get $30,000 as his share of the prize money out of that transaction.

The usual predictions of a very cold winter have begun. The birds have hurried off to the South. The mosquitoes gave their last spiteful bites on Monday night.

The New York correspondent of a Cincinnati paper says "love for gambling" rages in the breasts of our avenue bells. The slanderer! — but she states as a fact that one pretty heiress of millions recently lost $50,000 in a single night at ecarte.

The election for Governor in Mississippi has resulted in the choice of B. G. Humphreys, lately a rebel general and who has not yet been pardoned.

The Judge Advocate, Colonel Chipman, has refused to admit the testimony of the rebel Generals Lee and Johnston in the Wirz trial, on the ground that they were conspirators with Wirz in the management of the Andersonville prison pen.

General Wirz's health is so precarious that it is considered doubtful whether he will survive his trial. The evidence for the prosecution is all in.

VOTE THE STRAIGHT MORGAN COUNTY UNION TICKET — For Judge of the County Court, Capt. H. G. Whitlock; for Associate Judges, Capt. J. M. Lane and Lieut. John Hardin; for County Clerk, Capt. Horace Chapin; for Assessor and Treasurer, Capt. Wyllis Meacham; for School Commissioner, Lieut. Wm. L. English; for County Surveyor, Private Josiah Barrows.

Union tickets, made up of returned soldiers, were the rule in the 1865 election and generally speaking they did very well, particularly in the northern half of the state. In Morgan only one man, Capt. H. G. Whitlock, was successful; the balance of the ticket losing by 10 to 30 votes.

PARDONED — On Saturday last Senator Richard Yates received a telegram from Gov. Oglesby saying he had pardoned Benjamin F. Church, convicted a few days since of manslaughter. Sheriff Palmer, on seeing the telegram, immediately released the prisoner, regarding that as sufficient authority, while he might have insisted on waiting for the official papers. Bully for Palmer!

JACKSONVILLE AN IMPORTANT NEWS CENTER — We are led to believe that Jacksonville is regarded abroad as an important news centre, from the fact that the Chicago TRIBUNE, REPUBLICAN and JOURNAL, and the Springfield JOURNAL, have regular correspondence from this city, while the St. Louis, New York and Boston papers have occasional correspondence from this city.

From the Jacksonville Sentinel: PARDONED — Benjamin F. Church, who has been convicted of manslaughter at the recent term of the Morgan County Court and sentenced to imprisonment two years in the Penitentiary, has been pardoned by Gov. Oglesby.

It is proposed to build a church in London for the use of the deaf and dumb, of whom it is supposed there are no less than 1,800 in the metropolis alone without a suitable place of worship. Queen Victoria has given 50 pounds, and a gentleman offers 25, if 40 others will give the same amounts.

There is a great outcry in England as to the prospect of a general failure in the oyster crop. The English oyster is a small round bivalve, with a strong copper flavor, something as if a penny had become mucus, and although foreigners (especially Americans) do not like it so much, they afterwards get to favor it a great deal. The French crop is also reported not good.

J. P. Benjamin, rebel ex-Secretary of State, is about to take himself to the English bar.

Systems Analyst Uses Abacus To Check Figures, Estimates

By JOHN F. DAFFRON
RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — David Wang, a systems analyst, travels in the sophisticated business world of computers. But he still makes use of his suan pan — the Chinese abacus. He took it up in the third grade in Shanghai.

"For a quick check on figures — addition, subtraction or multiplication — the abacus is better than a computer because it's so much simpler," he said. "And it's just about as fast as an electric calculating machine."

In the hands of an expert, perhaps. A novice, who shall be nameless, took a whack at it. Modest confusion was the result.

Flicking his fingers over the rows of wooden beads on their wire strands, Wang completed a five-number multiplication in a few seconds.

An onlooker started checking the results by standard arithmetic. Wang ran through a few more problems on the ancient calculating device — the primitive cousin of the modern electronic digital computer.

In his job with Robertshaw Controls Co., Wang packs a 10-by-5-inch abacus in his brief case on his trips to the firm's plants in other cities.

"I use it to check my own cost figures and estimates," he said, and showing a letterhead, he added "How about this one?"

It was an itemized cost sheet submitted to Robertshaw by a leading manufacturer in the business machine field. "See where the total is $25 off?" Wang said. "I caught it on the abacus."

Twenty years ago, a career in industrial automation was as far from Wang's mind as his present home in Woodside, N.Y., is from his native Shanghai.

He wanted to be a tea merchant. And his schooling at Shanghai's St. John's University, 1944-46, and the University of California at Berkeley, 1946-48, was aimed toward management of the family's Wang Yue Tai Tea Co.

The firm, founded by his great-grandfather in 1837, was perhaps the oldest tea export firm in Shanghai, Wang said. But before his planned return home, the Communists took over the Chinese mainland. His family made it to Formosa. So Chia Shih Wang — he adopted the name David in school — armed with his abacus and a bachelor of science degree in business administration, took a turn at the tea trade in San Francisco, briefly, before moving to New York.

The rest of the family followed from Formosa. His father still does a bit of tea importing, Wang said, but the idea of perpetuating the Yue Tai Tea Co. is dead.

David moved into the computer field with Sperry-Rand's Univac. He worked for other firms as a systems consultant before joining Robertshaw more than a year ago.

Hal Boyle is on vacation.

Johnson's Tactics May Not Always Work

By NEIL GILBRIDE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Does President Johnson's strong hand in the steel settlement foreshadow more White House command performances in big labor disputes?

Is the strike likely to lose its punch as an economic weapon in the face of government intervention?

A high administration official doesn't think so, and a top spokesman for organized labor gives an emphatic no to both questions.

A national business group is not so sure but doesn't like the kind of Johnson-style White House bargaining used this summer to avert a steel strike and a nationwide railroad crisis 17 months earlier.

Labor sources insist that steel and railroad disputes are unique in their threatened impact on the entire nation and historically have often resulted in government intervention.

Johnson's intervention was nothing really new, they say. Union leaders do not foresee a pattern of increased White House intervention, nor do they concede any lessening of the power of the strike, although strike activity has declined in recent years.

"A union never wants strikes of any kind," said a top spokesman for organized labor. "A strike of any kind is tougher on the workers than anybody else, including the innocent bystander."

He said strikes have declined in the past 20 years because most strikes now are over economic issues, rather than the survival of the union.

Thus, the do-or-die element of survival strikes is largely gone. And, he adds, in good times the union can often win hefty pay hikes without resorting to the ultimate labor weapons — the strike.

President George Meany of the AFL-CIO frequently has described the strike as "probably the best tool because he has it and not because he uses it."

The chief weapon at the disposal of the White House to counter a strike that threatens the national health or safety is the 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction.

Johnson has used it only once — to halt a dock strike. But longshoremen walked out again as soon as the "cooling off" injunction expired last December and it took months and cost more than $1 billion in economic losses before that dispute was finally settled.

Observers believe this has caused Johnson to be reluctant to invoke Taft-Hartley as long as there is hope that any other means — including marathon White House talks — will serve to avert a major strike.

But such labor disputes that threaten the national welfare are rare.

It is often overlooked in discussion of the steel and rail disputes that Johnson did virtually nothing to interfere in last fall's long auto strike.

The reason was simple: there was no substantial threat to the nation's health or safety despite the multimillion-dollar economic loss. The Taft-Hartley Act specifies there must be such a threat before the President can seek a federal court injunction.

And, a labor spokesman says, the auto dispute proved that "workers won't hesitate to strike if they have to."

Labor and administration sources insist that in neither steel nor rail did Johnson direct a settlement.

His chief pressure tactic was to keep both sides guessing what he would do in the event of a strike. Of course there was the large imponderable of public opinion focused in the glare of White House publicity.

A top official of the United Steel Workers Union says that without Johnson there would almost certainly have been a long strike and that a Taft-Hartley injunction probably would have only delayed it.

Johnson, however, hinted strongly that he would use the Taft-Hartley injunction in the steel dispute if he had to.

The Taft-Hartley injunction is virtually the only weapon the government has under present law to force a halt to most strikes.

Strike deadlines in rail and airline disputes can be delayed somewhat longer under a separate law — the Railway Labor Act.

But all such emergency delays eventually run out and sometimes do little more than harden positions on both sides. The government, therefore, uses them only as a last resort.

When the Taft-Hartley injunction, or the Railway Act emergency delays, run out, the government's only other recourse is congressional action.

This was done during the administration of President John F. Kennedy to quell the seemingly endless railroad firemen's dispute.

Congress enacted an emergency law on the eve of a threatened nationwide rail strike in 1963. It provided for the first compulsory arbitration of a labor dispute in the nation's peacetime history.

One look at those big, beautiful, full-depth block cleats on Mobil Super Traction snow tires and you may find yourself wishing for snow. One look at these less-than-low prices and you'll see why "sooner" is better than "later" for buying.

If you need snow tires, here's your chance to get the best at a bargain. Mobil SUPER TRACTION tires, with nylon cord bodies, have a tread design of deep slots and heavy lugs that's been proven over years of the toughest traction tests imaginable. And these tires can hold their own on ice, too: the virtually unbroken cross-tread edge tends to bite in, the massive shoulder lugs guard against dangerous sideslips.

If you can get other snow tires that'll do more for you it's news to us. If you can get snow tires for less money than these you'll probably be missing a lot of performance and features.

The Mobil Super Traction is one snow tire you won't get stuck with.
